©The New York Times

Washington — The House narrowly approved Tuesday a $2 billion program of loan guarantees to livestock producers beset by depressed beef and poultry prices.

The bill, which passed 210 to 204, now goes to a Senate-House conference to be reconciled with a similar measure approved last month by the Senate.

Representatives from urban areas such as Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-N.J., assailed the measure as "the great beef-doggle" and said it should be entitled, "the cattlemen's-banker's relief act of 1974."

"There are those who continually make reference to the fact that, being from New York City and Westchester County, I don't know one end of the steer from the other," said Rep. Peter A. Peyser, a New York Republican, as some of his rural colleagues applauded.

'Pure Pork Barrel'

"I may not be an authority on the anatomy of a steer," Peyser went on, "but I certainly understand some basic economics and I have been in Congress long enough to recognize when a bill becomes pure pork barrel."

But Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, argued that the loan guarantees were needed to keep the livestock producers in business.

He said that because of the drop in livestock market prices in recent months, cattle producers were losing $100 to $150 per head on cattle brought to market and were having difficulty in obtaining bank loans to continue operations.

"This isn't a matter of bailing out anybody," he told the House.

80% Federal Guarantee

Under the measure, the federal government would guarantee 80% of private bank loans made to livestock producers who were unable to obtain credit without such a guarantee.

The loan guarantee program, described as an emergency measure, would stay in effect for one year but could be extended for an additional six months and would be available to a broad range of producers of livestock — beef cattle, dairy cattle, swine, sheep, goats, chickens and turkeys.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, talking with reporters at the White House, appeared to be uncomfortable about the measure but avoided offending the key congressional leaders, such as House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., and John J. Rhodes of Arizona, the House Republican leader, who supported the bill.

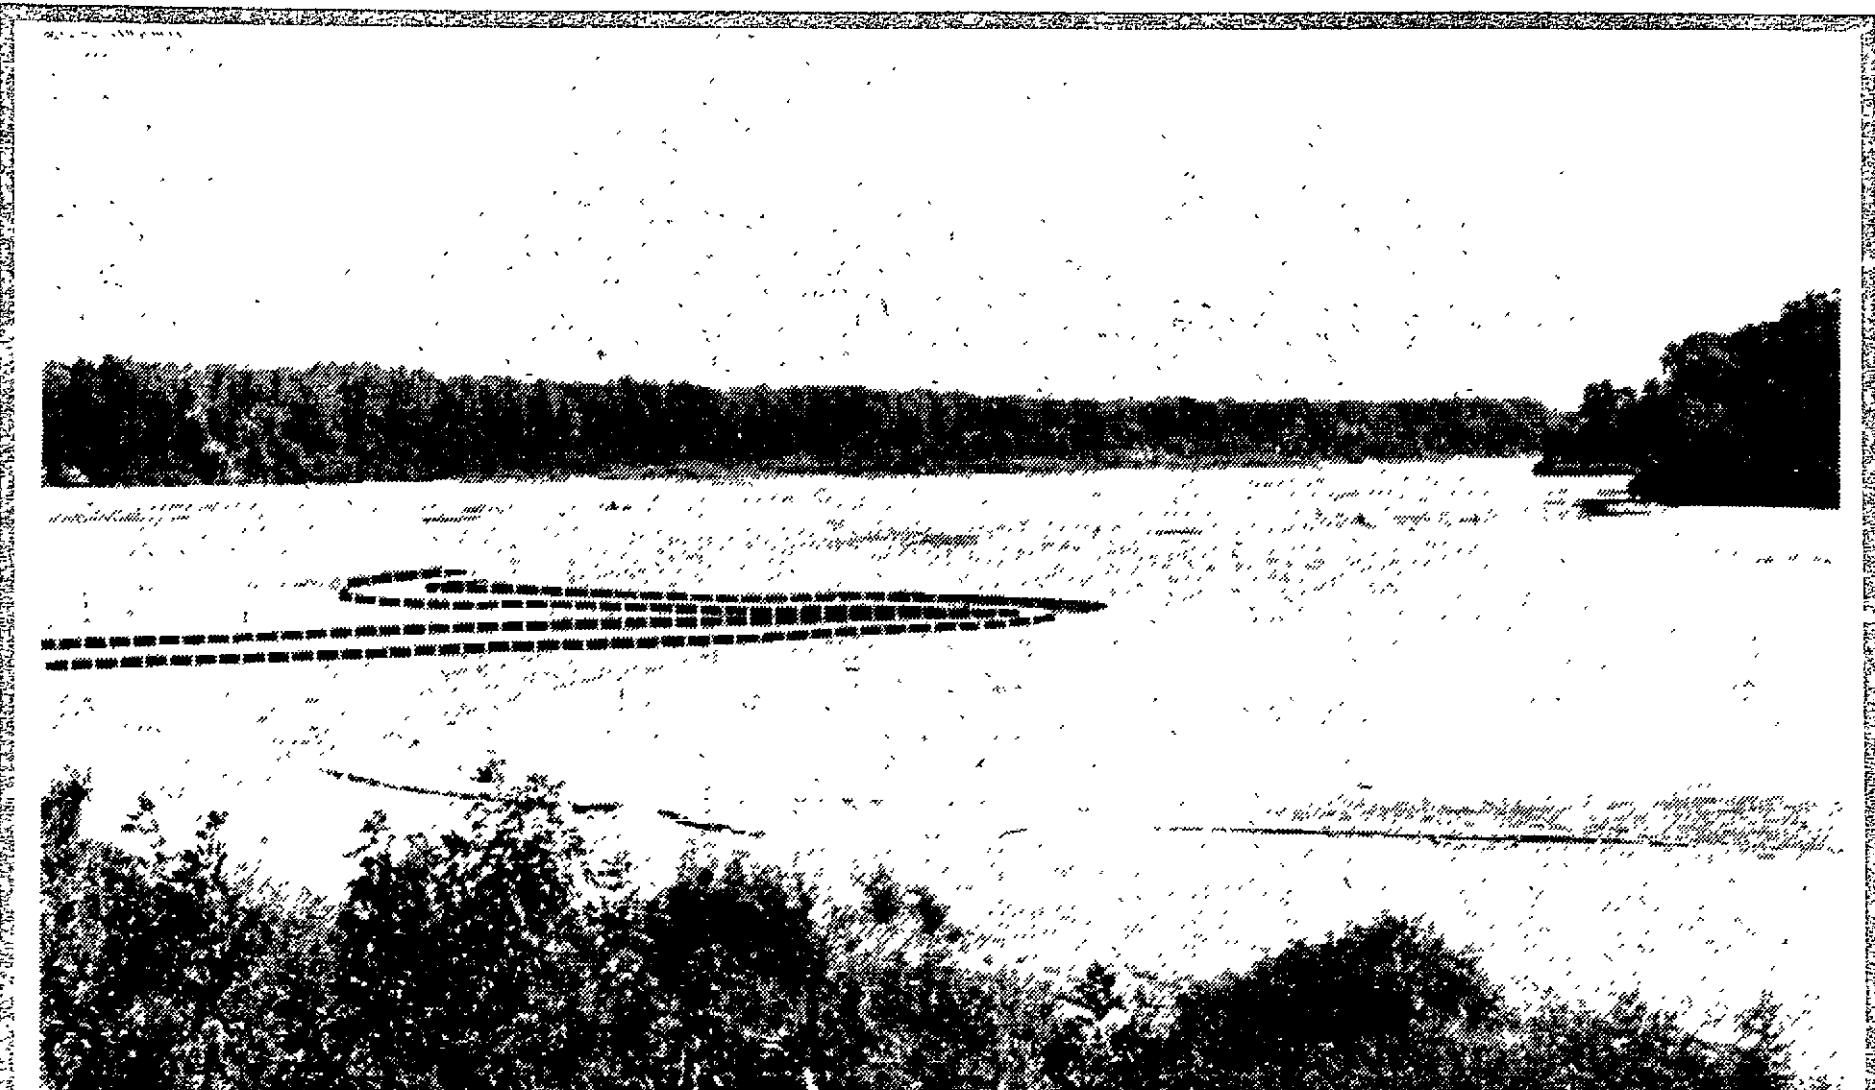

Butz: 'Bad Precedent'

Butz said he was opposed philosophically to the bill for setting a "bad precedent" but he said the House had "tightened it to a reasonable approach."

Before passing the bill the House approved 405 to 7, an amendment by Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, to ensure that the loan guarantees would go only to genuine farmers and ranchers and not to corporations and partnerships unless farmers and ranchers held the majority ownership.

By voice vote the House also approved another amendment by Mayne lowering the maximum loan guarantee to a single farmer to $250,000 from the $350,000 proposed by the Agriculture Committee.

Mayne said his amendments would "keep the family farm viable" and would prevent guarantees going to "tax-shelter operations."

Deposed President Arrives On Malta

By The Associated Press

Archbishop Makarios, the deposed president of Cyprus, arrived on the Mediterranean island of Malta on Tuesday night. He was reported ready to fly to New York to discuss the overthrow of his regime with the United Nations Security Council.

Fighting was reported continuing on Cyprus between Makarios' forces and those of the national guard, which overthrew the government Monday in what Makarios charged was a prelude to union with Greece.

At an emergency session Tuesday of the Security Council, Cyprus' U.N. ambassador, Zenon Rossides, appealed for immediate cease-fire, saying tanks were moving toward Paphos, a Makarios stronghold.

Well-informed Greek sources said Paphos, 60 miles southwest of the capital city of Nicosia, had already fallen to rebel forces.

Rossides said Makarios, who was given a head-of-state welcome on Malta, planned to fly to New York to meet with the Security Council.

After his arrival on Malta, the 60-year-old Makarios was taken to the governor-general's residence to rest. A Maltese information minister said Makarios was expected to leave soon for London. There was no mention of a trip to New York.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim told the council he had reports that at least 30 persons had been killed and over 100 injured in the fighting in Nicosia alone.

Despite Rossides' appeal, no action was taken at the council meeting, called by Waldheim to discuss the Monday coup, which raised the threat for the third time in 10 years of armed conflict between Greece and Turkey over the Mediterranean island.

The Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities have been at odds throughout the island's 14 years of independence from Britain.

The United States and Britain said any action would be premature pending the expected arrival of Makarios in New York. The Soviet Union had argued that "time will not wait" in view of what it called the "violent putsch."

The meeting was adjourned and no date was set for a further session.

In Nicosia, military rebels announced the formation of a new government and warned that curfew violators would be shot without warning.

Anything looking like a threat to the Turkish minority on Cyprus could bring a Greek-Turkish military clash. That would leave the United States and its partners in a difficult situation since Greece and Turkey form the easternmost flank of NATO. They also border on the Soviet orbit, and Moscow already regards the Greek military junta, believed in sympathy with the coup, as an enemy.

Turkey called on Britain to take joint action in Cyprus, invoking a provision of a 14-year-old agreement guaranteeing the independence and sovereignty of the Cyprus republic.

The Turkish navy was put on alert and there were reports that at least two Turkish fighting ships sailed from home port near the Cyprus coast. Diplomatic sources said the Turks also were preparing landing craft.

In Washington, the State Department again strongly stressed its warning against any foreign intervention in the Cyprus crisis. It did not spell out what it would regard as a foreign intervention.

Criticism of Greece for its reported role in the takeover poured in from around the world. Although Greece maintained it would continue its "principle of non-intervention in the affairs of other countries," Turkey charged Athens had violated the status quo on the island.

Britain and Turkey which, with Greece, are treaty-bound to safeguard the independence of Cyprus, consulted urgently over ways of fulfilling their commitment. Britain said it still regards Makarios as president of Cyprus.

In Washington, the Pentagon said several Russian cruisers and destroyers have started moving in the direction of Cyprus since the coup, but said it wouldn't characterize the movement as a matter of concern.

The armed forces of both Greece and Turkey remained on alert.

The population of Cyprus includes about 490,000 Greek Cypriots and 115,000 Turkish Cypriots. The two countries have been traditional enemies and their relations over Cyprus have long been strained.

On Cyprus, the national guard said it was permitting shops to reopen for two hours, but the British station warned foreign residents not to go out on the streets even to buy food. Rebel-controlled Cyprus radio said, however, that all foreigners on Cyprus "are in good health."

The new government pledged over the radio that no human rights were being violated.

The radio said the new government pledged to the families of those who have been arrested that they will receive humane treatment.

The rebel regime claims to have arrested 1,200 members of the pro-Makarios tactical reserve force, a special police unit he set up to counter the Greek-led national guard which brought off the coup.

The radio also said an islandwide ban on movement of people and vehicles would continue indefinitely.

Westmoreland Defeated In South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — State Sen. James B. Edwards, a Charleston dentist, defeated former Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland on Tuesday to win South Carolina's first Republican gubernatorial primary election.

Edwards, carrying his populous home county by a 9-1 margin and holding his own in other Republican strongholds, stunned Westmoreland, who was making his first political venture.

Westmoreland, who commanded American forces in Vietnam, said: "I haven't lost much in my life, and I guess this just proves I'm not a politician. I had something to give to my home state, but the GOP rejected me. Nobody likes to lose, but I will support Dr. Edwards in November."

The 60-year-old retired general carried 40 of the state's 46 counties, but with the light Republican turnout and Edwards' overwhelming vote in Charleston, he never really had a chance.

"We are shell-shocked. We are stunned," one of Westmoreland's campaign aides said earlier in the night.

In the Democratic primary, Charles "Pug" Ravenel, a 37-year-old investment banker from Charleston who has spent the past decade on Wall Street, pulled off one of the biggest upsets in this Deep South state by moving into a runoff for his party's gubernatorial nomination.

Ravenel, given no chance of victory two months ago, will face veteran U.S. Rep. W.J. Bryan Dorn in a July 30 runoff.

With 1,150 of the 1,640 precincts reporting, Ravenel had 64,590 votes, Dorn 61,219. Lt. Gov. Earle E. Morris had 50,190. Four other candidates were far behind.

An estimated 200,000 black voters were considered the key to the Democratic race.

The state's 950,000 registered voters also chose a host of state officials. There were contests in only three of the state's six congressional districts, all on the Democratic side. None of the state's incumbent congressmen faced primary opposition.

Westmoreland's entry into politics drew national attention. He had taken a $25,000 per year job as a state economic consultant shortly after returning to South Carolina and was wooed by both parties. When he accepted the GOP bid, it was believed he would win easily.

Westmoreland's campaign focused mainly on claims of his leadership ability and during tours of the state he talked about such issues as inflation and the like. Toward the end of the campaign, he began attacking Edwards, saying he was part of the state's GOP establishment.

Edwards, on the other hand infrequently mentioned the retired general, and during his campaigning across the state raised mainly economic issues, inflation, jobs and new industry.

Watergate was never an issue in the state.

Judge Finds Little To Praise In Long Hair, Wigs Situation

By GORDON WINTERS

Seventeen Omaha Marine Corps reservists Tuesday won the right to wear short-hair wigs to summer camp.

That wasn't the only thing awarded.

In an accompanying memorandum, U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt left that narrow issue and cast an observing eye over all the testimony in the case.

The testimony, Van Pelt noted, "indicates that the taxpayers and the Congress may have a legitimate complaint to the expenditure of money by the Marines as to the value of summer camp training.

"The record in the case shows no mock warfare and similar exercises, or extended maneuvers with regular units.

"It does not show any substantive instruction appropriate to the men's occupational specialties. It does not show the men sleeping in the barracks or taking their meals in the mess halls of the regular Marine Corps establishment.

"They appear to work, if sitting around is included as working, office hours and to be off base almost as they wish."

Van Pelt noted that he had also made inquiry of Capt. Michael Morton, commanding officer of the Marine Reserve Unit, and found "no one in the courtroom other than the captain himself whose haircut was acceptable under Marine Corps standards."

This included, he noted, himself, the U.S. attorney representing the Marine Corps, the attorney representing the reservists, the deputy U.S. marshal, the deputy clerk, the judge's law clerk and the court reporter, "who was on Bataan with its subsequent march and years of imprisonment."

The ruling and observations came in response to a suit filed by 17 members of the engineer's maintenance company of the U.S. Marine Corps in Omaha.

The reservists had claimed that they wanted to wear their hair long in civilian life as a measure of personal privacy, autonomy and liberty.

State's Only Carillon Takes Skilled Artist

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

Governments and religions have shared bells for earthly and sacred purposes for almost six millenniums.

Biblical Exodus tells of bells as protection against evil influences.

Oriental temples were full of bells, purifying the holy place.

In medieval Belgium and the Netherlands, bells in watchtowers warned of flooding over dikes or of invaders.

Lincoln and the First Plymouth Congregational Church at 20th and D Sts. have shared a carillon of 48 bells for nearly half a century.

It is the only carillon in Nebraska. The closest set of bells is in Ames, Iowa, the next closest in Chicago.

Church Maintains Them

The church houses and maintains them, but the city and several civic organizations such as the Women's Club, helped buy the bells from John Taylor and Co. of Loughborough, England, in 1931.

The city uses the bells infrequently these days, carillonneur Ray Johnson said.

An October, 1971, article in Music Magazine explained that governments lost interest in bells with the invention of sirens during World War I. World War II and the Korean War finalized their demise when copper and tin, the alloy used to make bells, was available to only the military.

The church, however, uses the bells for Sunday morning services, weddings, special meetings, religious holidays and a new Sunday evening discussion group at First Plymouth.

Duties Shared

Johnson shares his duties with a Carillon guild of seven students.

Two of his predecessors, Ronald Barnes and radius of the church on a quiet day.

FIRST PLYMOUTH... a rarity.

Piano-Like Keyboard

The bells are played from a piano-like keyboard of wooden handles. A carillonneur strikes the handles against padded metal stoppers, pulling taut metal strings rigged to the bells' clappers.

The keyboard is one floor below the bells, but Johnson said he still cannot hear the top octave of bells because of the sound of wood hitting metal as he plays the notes.

Because of the bells' size, there is a lag between striking the handles and the bells' ringing, Johnson said. But because it varies from more than half a second for the largest bells, to a fraction of that for the smallest, he has had to learn to compensate for 48 unique lags.

The bells range in size from 18 pounds to 2½ tons. They and their frame combine to weigh 85 tons, Johnson said. In 1931, they cost about $28,000, but are worth four times that today, Johnson said.

Quality of bells depends on shape, size and casting, he said. Some carillons are centuries old and none have worn out, he said.

Little Care Needed

Bells require little care, he said. But when the First Plymouth carillon needs repair, someone must come from England or Canada, he said.

Lincoln's set is a very large one, he said. Tones range from one octave below middle C to three octaves above middle C.

Each bell bears an inscription. That on the largest bell is a tribute to Carrie B. Raymond, church director of music in 1931.

The second largest reads:

"To the Pioneers of Nebraska, Explorers, Frontiersmen, Traders, Homesteaders/Men of Courage, Versatility and Power/They subdued the wilderness, set up the alters of God/ and laid the foundations of a Greater Republic."

Bar Group Elects Ellick

Omaha (AP) — Omaha attorney Alfred G. Ellick has been elected president-elect of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

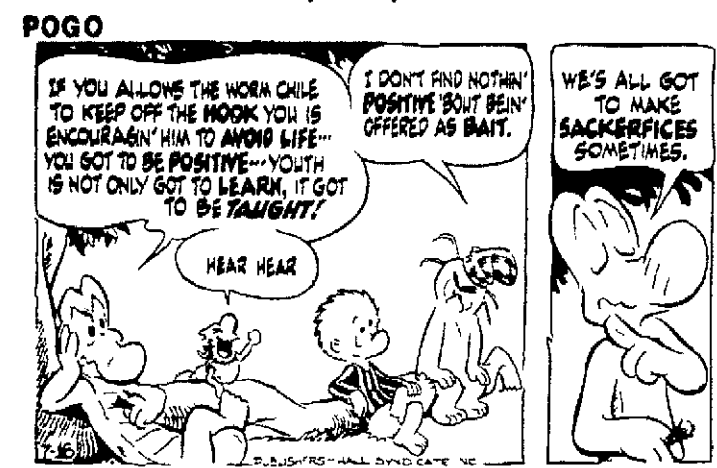

Ellick, of the firm of Ellick, Spire and Langdon, was the choice of the bar association executive council and was opposed by a group of lawyers who circulated petitions for Thomas L. Morrissey of Tecumseh. Bar association officials said it was a "rare contested election."

Ellick will serve a one-year term as president-elect starting at the association's annual meeting in Omaha October 9-11. His term as president will begin in October, 1975.

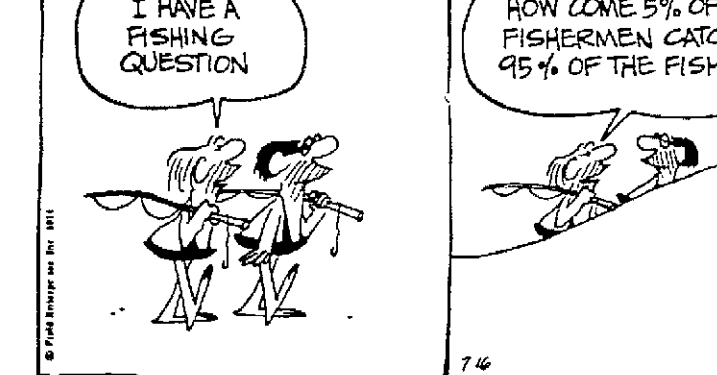

Bernard Smith of Lexington takes over the presidency in October from Bert L. Overcash of Lincoln.

Impeachment Argument Scheduled

Washington — John M. Doar, the House Judiciary Committee's special counsel, will present a forceful, detailed argument to the committee this week in favor of the impeachment of President Nixon. Well-placed officials said Doar, who has abstained from any characterization of the impeachment evidence, will outline "theories of the case" on which, in his view, the President should be required to stand trial in the Senate for constitutional high crimes and misdemeanors. Doar presentation, expected to focus on four or six broad articles of impeachment, will come Thursday through Saturday. Next week, in public, the committee will debate and vote on its recommendations.

Haig Says Nixon Reinforced

Washington — Despite Watergate, Western Europe still looks to the United States for leadership and stability, Gen. Alexander Haig said in an interview. President Nixon's Moscow trip, said Haig, the White House chief of staff, confirmed beyond question "the desire to continue detente," adding that Nixon's successes have reinforced his determination to stay on the job.

Women Doctors Increasing

New York — In a movement that could alter both the teaching and practice of medicine, American women are entering the medical profession in dramatically increasing numbers.

Giscard Appoints Woman

Paris — President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing appointed Françoise Giroud, feminist writer and co-founder of the news magazine L'Express, to the new post of secretary of state for the condition of women. She accepted presumably after receiving assurances that she would have scope for a program beyond "brassieres and dishwashing."

Ex-President On Trial

Seoul, South Korea — A former president of South

Korea went on trial before a military court on charges of subversion that carry a possible death sentence. Yun Po Sun, a frail 77-year-old, was accused of having advocated the overthrow of President Park Chung Hee and having provided the equivalent of $1,000 to anti-government student demonstrators.

Democratic Chairman Predicts Impeachment

©The New York Times

Washington — Robert S. Strauss, the Democratic national chairman, predicted Tuesday that the House would vote to impeach President Nixon because of "devastating and overwhelming" evidence against him.

Strauss said he reached his conclusions about the evidence last weekend, when he read at his Texas home a substantial portion of the transcripts of White House Watergate conversations for the first time.

Heretofore, the party chairman had steadfastly refused to comment on the possibilities of impeachment because, as he repeatedly said, to do so would be to give the impeachment debate an "inappropriate" partisan cast.

He said Tuesday he had changed his attitude because of reading the transcripts, not because he had taken a head count or because of new political considerations.

Ohio Legislators Draw Up Pay Offer

By The Associated Press

Ohio lawmakers drew up a wage offer Tuesday in hopes of luring 7,000 striking public employees back to work, strike-bound National Airlines furloughed 5,500 employees, and a transit strike forced 200,000 San Francisco area commuters off the buses and into their cars.

There were almost 600 strikes against a variety of industries and public agencies across the nation.

Hardest hit was Ohio where a strike by state employees began July 6 at state prisons and a mental hospital and by Tuesday had spread to half the state's 28 mental hospitals and eight of 11 prisons. Twenty-five state liquor stores and two warehouses closed after clerks joined the public employees' strike in the northeastern part of the state.

A joint legislative committee worked out a proposed wage package that would boost hourly pay by 30 cents for state workers earning less than $8,000 a year. Reaction from four unions was mixed.

In eastern Ohio, about 2,075 coal miners staged a one-day walkout in protest of a proposed federal strip mining bill that would impose a tax on coal to pay for reclamation of abandoned strip mines.

There were these other strike developments:

— In Baltimore, a public employees' walkout seemed all but settled. Police approved a new two-year contract that will boost top scale from $11,082 to $13,500 to end a five-day walkout by about 500 of the 2,500-member force. Blue-collar workers, whose base pay ranged from $3.08 to $3.82, won a 70-cent hourly hike and 3,000 sanitation workers, zoo keepers and other laborers were back on the job. A few jail guards remained out in a dispute over reprisals against strikers.

— A strike over wages by bus drivers in California resulted in massive traffic jams on the San Francisco Bay Bridge. The Federal Energy Administration urged the AC Transit District and strikers to reach an immediate settlement to halt gasoline waste by auto commuters. However, talks were deadlocked.

— National Airlines, the nation's eighth largest, furloughed more than half its 8,000 employees as hopes dimmed for a quick settlement of a strike by 1,600 machinists, clerks, fuel truck drivers and inspectors. Fringe benefits were at issue.

— A national copper strike continued as three large producers and a coalition of 26 unions were unable to reach agreement on a new contract. Kennecott Copper Co. made a tentative settlement Monday, but pickets remained at the nation's leading producer until local issues were settled.

Thirteen of 21 mining operations were struck in Arizona where 16,000 of the 30,000 striking workers were off the job. The Department of Mineral Resources said the strike that began Sunday was costing the state $3.3 million daily — $2.8 million from sales and $452,000 in personal income.

Operations were shut down at Phelps Dodge Corp., American Smelting and Refining Co. and Magma Copper Co. along with several independents. The main issue was wages.

Political Use of IRS Examined . . .

Nixon Wanted Report On Probe Of Wallace

©The New York Times

Washington — The House Judiciary Committee made public Tuesday the sworn testimony of a former White House staff member who said that H. R. Haldeman told him in 1970 that President Nixon personally wanted a report on an IRS investigation of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and his brother Gerald.

The former staff member, Clark R. Mollenhoff, also testified that he had reason to believe that someone "at the highest White House level" gave derogatory information from the report by the Internal Revenue Service on the Wallaces to columnist Jack Anderson three weeks before the governorship primary in 1970.

This was the primary in which White House agents secretly gave $400,000 to Gov. Wallace's opponent.

Asked about the allegations, Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said: "Ask Clark Mollenhoff. I haven't heard anything about it." Mollenhoff is now a reporter for the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Ninth Volume

Mollenhoff's testimony is contained in the ninth volume of the Judiciary Committee's "Statement of Information" for the impeachment inquiry. The first eight volumes, dealing with the Watergate break-in and cover-up, were released last Thursday.

The Mollenhoff testimony is among many items of previously unpublished material relating to the alleged use of the IRS for political purposes by the Nixon administration.

Other highlights include the following:

—Testimony from both of Nixon's first two commissioners of internal revenue that they had offered their resignations in the face of pressures from the White House to take what they considered to be improper actions.

—A statement by the first of these, Randolph W. Thrower, that when he had tried to see Nixon to express his "concern about White House attitudes toward the IRS," he was told by Haldeman, the White House chief of staff, that "the President did not like such conferences."

—Testimony repeatedly naming Vernon D. Acree, the assistant commissioner of internal revenue, who was promoted by Nixon to be commissioner of customs, as the source of tax information that the White House wanted on prominent persons.

—An affidavit from former IRS Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters detailing repeated efforts by John D. Ehrlichman, the chief White House adviser on domestic matters, to force the agency to find something major wrong with the tax returns of Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien before the 1972 election.

—Information that the Rev. John McLaughlin, the Jesuit priest who is on the White House staff, helped on an investigation of Lawrence Y. Goldberg, a Providence, R.I., businessman, who was apparently suspected by some in the 1972 Nixon re-election effort of being too committed to Jewish causes to be a loyal Nixon supporter. Goldberg ultimately got a staff position with the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

The Judiciary Committee's 400-page volume of evidence on the political use of the IRS discloses that the committee has not made any investigations of its own in this area, but has merely used and published information gathered by others.

For example, the volume contains copies of memorandums that were made public earlier by the Senate Watergate Committee, which indicate, without proving, that the White House intervened in a tax audit being conducted on the Rev. Billy Graham, the evangelist.

One such memorandum, from a subordinate of Haldeman, asks Haldeman, "Can we do anything to help?" Graham was under investigation for allegedly receiving income he never reported in the form of construction and decorator work and tuition payments for his children who were in school abroad.

Haldeman's handwritten reply was, "No — it's already covered."

The Judiciary Committee did not report any attempt to find out what Haldeman's note meant.

The volume of evidence does contain new information on the Graham case, however, in the form of previously unpublished testimony by John J. Caulfield, the one-time White House staff member who regularly got confidential information from IRS for the White House.

Caulfield testified before a closed meeting of the Senate Watergate Committee that he had, at the request of John W. Dean III, the former White House counsel, obtained a "back door copy" of the IRS status report on the Graham investigation from Acree.

Dean wanted to know "whether Mr. Billy Graham was being harassed by the IRS," according to Caulfield, who said that Dean "did not indicate where his assignments were coming from."

Caulfield agreed, under questioning, that "the White House making a request in this fashion would probably be considered abnormal."

Another section of the Judiciary Committee's document indicates that Nixon knew that his staff members were using circuitous channels for getting information from IRS.

On March 13, 1973, according to a committee transcript, Nixon asked Dean whether he needed "any IRS stuff" in connection with an effort to show that Democrats had been engaged in political espionage and other alleged improprieties.

Dean responded:

"There is no need at this hour for anything from IRS, and we have a couple of sources over there that I can go to. I don't have to fool around with Johnnie Walters or anybody, we can get right in and get what we need."

Nixon: Watergate Thinnest Scandal

San Clemente, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, terming Watergate "the thinnest scandal in American history," says that if the charges against him were true, "I wouldn't serve for one minute."

The President's comments were made in a broad-ranging interview with Rabbi Baruch Korff, a Nixon supporter from Providence, R.I. In the interview, recorded at the White House on May 13, Nixon said:

"I wouldn't serve for one minute if they were true. But I know they are not true and therefore, I will stay here, do the job that I was elected to do as well as I can and trust to the American constitutional process to make the final verdict."

The interview with Korff, chairman of the National Citizens' Committee for Fairness to the Presidency, Inc., was published Tuesday in a paperback volume called, "The Personal Nixon: Staying on the Summit."

Royalties from the book, authored by the rabbi, will go to the committee, Korff said.

In the question-and-answer session held in Nixon's oval office, the President criticized the news media, accused subordinates of Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski of abusing the investigative process and declared, "It would be extremely difficult for anyone to get a fair trial" in the District of Columbia in a Watergate-related case.

Tax Audits Of Entertainers Prepared For White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A list of entertainers' tax audit results prepared by the Internal Revenue Service for the White House in 1971 shows repeated four, five and even six-figure assessments were made for unpaid income taxes.

The list was released Tuesday as evidence in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation.

It was prepared by the IRS in order to convince aides of President Nixon that tax collectors were not harassing actor John Wayne, a political supporter of Nixon.

According to memos and testimony from former White House investigator John J. Caulfield, the material was prepared by Vernon Acree, then an IRS assistant commissioner. He gave it to Caulfield, who passed it Oct. 6, 1971 to John W. Dean III, then White House counsel. The listing showed Wayne had been assessed $237,331 in taxes for 1966, $7,396 for 1965 and $6,389 for 1964 and was under audit for the years 1967-69 as well as a re-audit for 1966.

Caulfield said Acree compiled information on six other entertainers plus Gov. Ronald W. Reagan of California, a former actor, who were deemed to be in a roughly similar financial situation to Wayne.

The tax details on the others showed:

—Richard Boone, audited 1965 and 1966 with no change, assessed $1,377 for 1967 and 1968, audit in progress for 1969 and 1970.

—Sammy Davis Jr., assessed $36,683 for 1961, 1962, 1963 and 1966; 1968 and 1969 audits in progress.

—Jerry Lewis, assessed $462,312 for 10 of the 11 years from 1958 through 1968; 1969 and 1970 audits in progress.

—Peter Lawford, assessed $32,720 for 1966 through 1968.

—Fred MacMurray, examined seven of the eight years from 1962 through 1969; no change one year, assessed $19,716 for four years, and refunded $5,711 for two years.

—Gary Morton and Lucille Ball, assessed $7,010 for 1965; 1968 and 1969 audits in progress.

—Reagan, assessed $13,101 for 1962 through 1965; examined with no change in 1966; 1967 through 1970 audits in progress.

—Frank Sinatra, $30,797 assessed for 1960 and 1962 through 1964; audit in progress for 1968; "open full-scale investigation" in progress for 1963 through 1965.

Brief To Advocate Impeachment

Washington (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee will be given a brief this week advocating the adoption of 6 to 12 proposed articles of impeachment against President Nixon, a senior Democratic member disclosed Tuesday.

Republicans on the impeachment panel are preparing for a fight.

Stepping up his timetable, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr.

D-N.J., also said he anticipated completion of committee action on the impeachment issue by July 26, with the first vote as early as July 24.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., one of a four-member task force considering the articles, said they probably would include obstruction of justice, corruption of government agencies, Nixon's personal finances, contempt of Congress and matters relating to Watergate.

Edwards disclosed the plans during a break in the second long day of testimony from Charles W. Colson, former Nixon aide and confidant, who apparently kept insisting that he felt Nixon was innocent of any wrongdoing. Colson completed 16 hours of testimony in late afternoon and Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal attorney, took the stand as the last witness.

Some members said Colson's testimony was "slippery." At one point, members said, Rep. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., got an evasive answer when he asked Colson why he pleaded guilty to a charge of obstructing justice in the break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist — for which he drew a 1- to 3-year prison sentence.

Henley Gets 99 Years For Each Of 6 Killings

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — After deliberating 55 minutes, a jury sentenced Elmer Wayne Henley to 99 years in prison for each of six slayings — part of the largest mass murder in modern American history.

Henley, an 18-year-old school dropout, was whisked away with jaws clenched Tuesday after hearing the court clerk read the sentence six times, once for each of the six victims. They were among 27 young men killed in a homosexual torture ring Henley was convicted of taking part in.

Henley's lawyer said he would appeal. The formal sentencing will not be for 10 days, but under Texas law the judge must follow the jury's recommendation, deciding only whether Henley will serve the terms consecutively or concurrently.

Under state parole law and with favorable conditions, Henley could be out of prison in eight years and four months. However, about half the state's convicts serve their full sentence.

The same jury had debated about the same length of time Monday before convicting Henley.

One juror, Alfred C. Prinz, 38, a civil service administrator at Kelly Air Force Base here, said the jurors had no problem reaching their verdict. "There was no question . . ." he said.

Another juror, Rosemary Tull, who has three children including a teen-aged son, said: "We took just one vote on each of the guilty verdicts. We had discussions before the vote and each one was 12 to nothing."

In his plea for the 99-year sentence, Dist. Atty. Carol Vance apologized to jurors because they could not assess the death sentence under Texas laws.

The state had said Dean Coril, 33, paid Henley and a friend, David Owen Brooks, 19, to procure teen-age boys for Coril's homosexual orgies. Brooks still faces trial.

Nitrite, Nitrate Panel Asks USDA Restrictions, Bans

©The New York Times

New York — An expert panel on nitrites and nitrates has advised the Agriculture Department to restrict and in some cases ban these additives.

The preliminary recommendations are expected to be presented in final form at the panel's next meeting in September.

They grew out of concern that these chemical additives may be converted into cancer-causing compounds once in the human digestive tract. Animal studies have demonstrated this possibility. In addition, traces of these cancerous compounds have been found in some foods to which nitrites or nitrates were added.

These food additives are now widely used in processed meats, including hot dogs, sausages, hams, bacon and luncheon meats. USDA authorizes the use of nitrites and nitrates to impart a reddish color to cured meats, which would otherwise be greyish. Several consumer groups have petitioned for a ban on the additives.

Department and industry scientists maintain that the additives act as preservatives and prevent the growth of deadly botulinum bacteria. However, their use has not been authorized on the basis of the presumed preservative effect.

The department's advisory panel, which consists of five scientists from industry, universities and government, heard testimony from experts in various aspects of food and chemistry. At their third meeting in Washington, the panel recommended that nitrates be banned from use in most food products. Fermented sausages, such as salami and bologna, and dried, cured products, such as country-style ham, are temporarily exempted from the recommended ban on nitrates, pending additional research findings.

Currently there are no limits on how much nitrate may be added to processed foods, and in some cases thousands of parts per million of the chemical are put in certain meats. At room temperature, nitrates in foods can be converted to nitrites by bacterial action. Nitrites, in turn, may combine in the stomach with amines to form nitrosamines, potent cancer-causing substances.

With regard to nitrites as additives, the current limit of 200 parts per million in the food as it reaches the consumer would, according to the new recommendations, be changed to a limit of 156 parts per million added to the meat before processing. During processing and storage for a few weeks, this level is expected to drop to about 30 parts per million, the amount the consumer would presumably be exposed to.

A temporary exemption pending further data was made for fermented sausages, dried cured meats and bacon.

Nitrates and nitrites are ingested from other sources than foods containing them as additives. Vegetables like spinach may contain relatively large amounts of the chemicals naturally, and in some areas drinking water contains large amounts of nitrates which enter the water supply as runoff from fertilized agricultural land.

Trade Bill Action Urged In Senate

Washington (UPI) — Fearful of a tariff war that could plunge the world into a 1930s-style depression, 15 senators Tuesday urged swift action on a new trade bill that has been stalled for seven months in the Senate Finance Committee.

Both liberals and conservatives — particularly from farm states — spoke on behalf of the bill during a three-hour "colloquy" set up by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and others.

Aides said Humphrey hoped to force action this year by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the Finance Committee chairman. Long was campaigning in Louisiana, but aides said he plans to start committee work by the end of July on amending the House version.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., a committee member, told the Senate he believes the measure will come before the body this fall.

The purpose of the bill is to give the president authority to jointly negotiate new tariff concessions and restructure the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs which governs trade in most of the free world.

It passed the House last December, but has been stalled because of President Nixon's threat to veto it if it comes to his desk containing the so-called Jackson-Vanik amendment to bar trade concessions to Russia unless Moscow permits free emigration of Soviet Jews.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., co-sponsor of the amendment with Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, indicated last week he was prepared to compromise by inserting a fixed quota in place of the free emigration provision.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., a committee member, told the Senate he believes the measure will come before the body this fall.

The purpose of the bill is to give the president authority to jointly negotiate new tariff con-

Abel Warns Of Possible Depression

Pittsburgh (UPI) — United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel accused both Congress and the Nixon administration Tuesday of doing little to combat inflation, and warned of a possible depression unless corrective measures were undertaken.

Abel said labor wants government to play a responsible role to stabilize the economy by halting inflation which economists predict will surpass 10% this year.

He said Congress and the administration have "made little or no effort at all" to halt the rise of inflation.

Asked at a news conference if conditions now were similar to those before the 1919 depression, Abel replied: "All indications certainly look that way. Things seem to be more out of hand than they were then."

Chicago Bank's
Prime Interest
Stays At 12%

New York (AP) — First National Bank of Chicago decided to keep its prime lending rate at 12% this week, despite the 12.75% rate called for by its formula guideline.

"The recent moderation in the rate of growth of business loans leads us to believe that the restrictive anti-inflationary monetary policy of the Federal Reserve is beginning to achieve its goal of curtailing expansion," a bank official said in announcing the weekly rate.

Boy Drowns At Schuyler

Schuyler (AP) — A 19-year-old Schuyler youth drowned Tuesday afternoon while swimming in Ski Lake, south of here.

Authorities said Steve Stark was swimming in the lake while a non-swimming companion stood by. Stark called for assistance, but the other youth could not aid him.

He called for assistance and a golfer on a nearby golf course ran to a swimming pool to seek help. While a call was made for the Schuyler fire department, life guards at the pool rushed to the scene in an attempt to rescue Stark.

They reported that cold water and a strong undercurrent hampered their efforts and the body was recovered by fire department personnel in 25 feet of water.

Iowan Reports $6,700 Stolen In Shelby Co.

Harlan, Iowa (AP) — Shelby County authorities are investigating the theft of more than $6,700 from a vault in the office of the Shelby County treasurer.

The theft was discovered when Treasurer Ralph Henderson came to work Tuesday, but officials have not been able to find any signs of forcible entry anywhere in the courthouse.

Sheriff's officers said they have no suspects and no clues in connection with the theft.

DuPont Planning To Build Plant

Jackson, Miss. (AP) — The DuPont Co. announced Tuesday it would construct a $125-million pigment plant on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Company officials said the plant would make titanium dioxide, to be used as a pigment in paints, plastics, paper, ink, and floor covering.

UNO Officials Deny Violating Procedures

Omaha (AP) — Two University of Nebraska at Omaha officials denied Tuesday that university procedures have been violated in an attempt to remove the chairman of the criminal justice department.

G. L. Kuchel had charged that Dean Hubert G. Locke, head of the College of Public Affairs and Community Service, had not conducted what Kuchel contends are required consultations with faculty members of the criminal justice faculty before seeking to oust him.

UNO regardless of the outcome. He is a tenured professor and therefore assured of a position.

Garfinkel said there is no requirement in university bylaws for a consultation with criminal justice department faculty, but added that the need for such action is "implicit."

He said he feels a meeting by Locke with the faculty last Friday fulfills the consultation need, adding that no one has indicated any discontent to him.

Kuchel also contended there was disagreement between Locke and Dr. Herbert Garfinkel, the University vice chancellor for academic affairs.

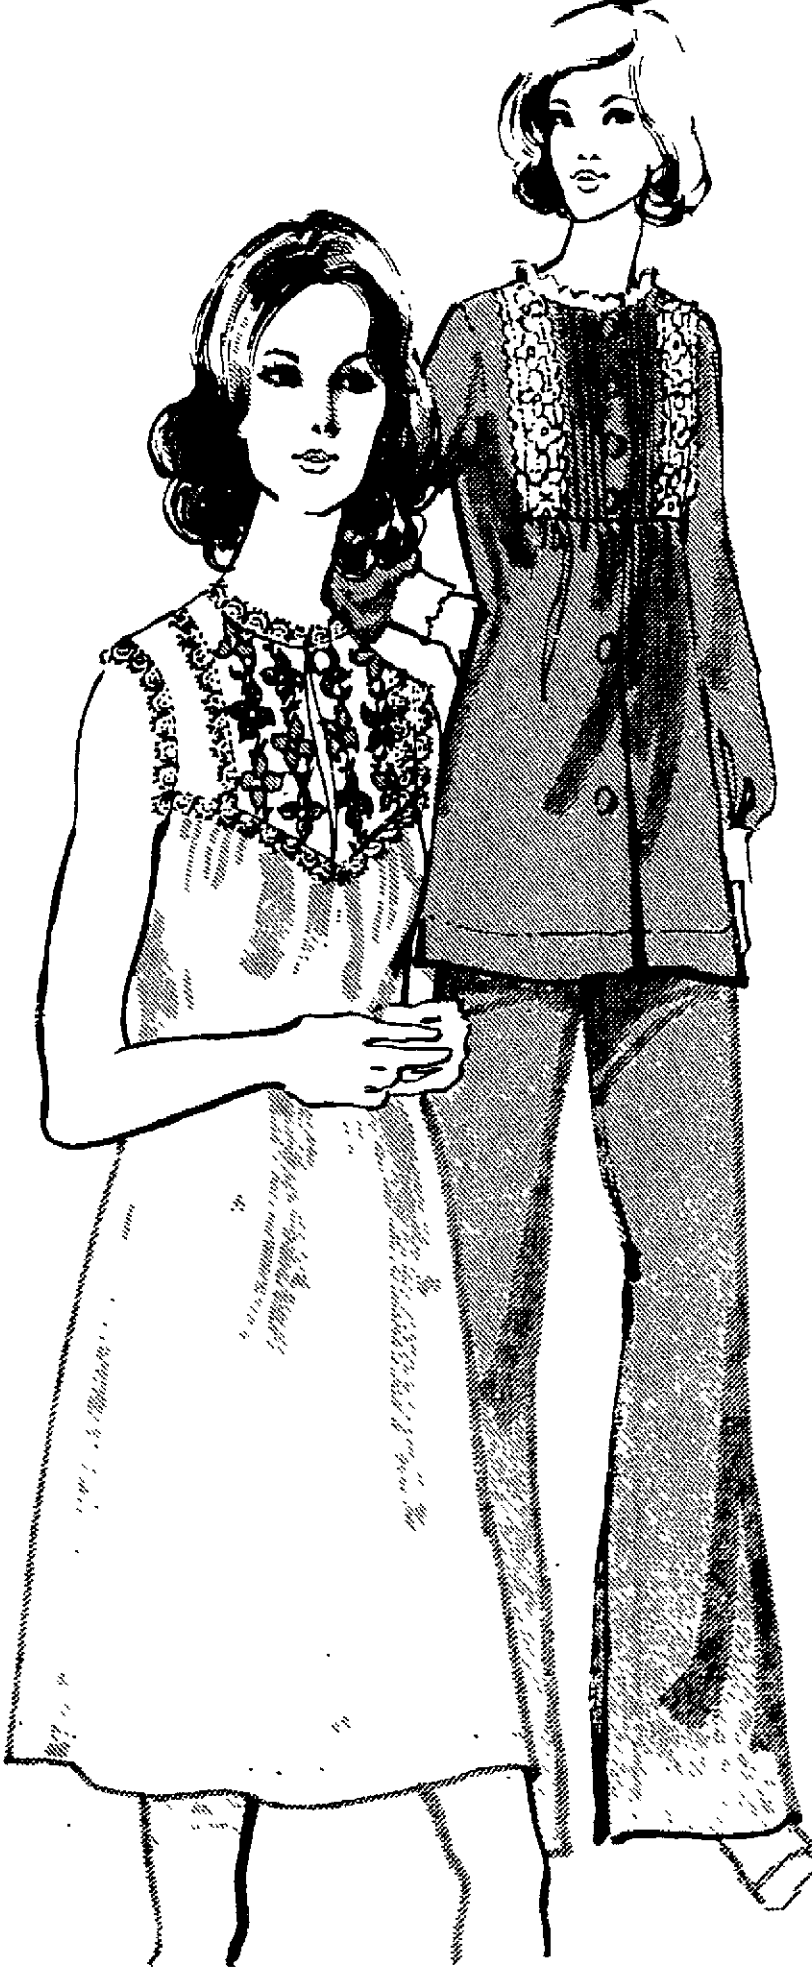

Locke and Garfinkel said however, that there is no substantive disagreement between them on the procedure to be followed.

Locke has asked that Kuchel be relieved of his chairmanship, and Garfinkel said Tuesday he has recommended to UNO Chancellor Ronald Roskens that Kuchel be dismissed. Kuchel has said he intends to remain at Kuchel contends that Locke's move to dismiss him is connected with his criticism of the Pilot Cities program administered by Locke's College. Locke denies the charge.

One Study Shows Dad Spends 38 Seconds A Day With Children

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

In a recent study, reported by Dr. Ron Daly, Extension family life specialist for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, a group of fathers was interviewed and asked how much they played with their one-year-old child.

Those responding indicated that they interacted with their one-year-olds from 15 to 20 minutes each day.

However, Dr. Daly explained that in a subsequent study, when fathers were observed to determine the actual amount of time spent with the youngsters, revealed that the fathers interacted with their children an average of 2.7 times each day, for a total average of 37.7 seconds each day.

"Actually, it is the quality of the time that is important, not the quantity," Dr. Daly noted, "but there can't be much quality with 37.7 seconds."

"However, this was only one study," he emphasized.

Referring to today's families as "split-level with few vertical relationships," Daly pointed out, "children relate to children, teenagers with teenagers, adults to adults and elderly with elderly, with few relationships between children and adults."

"There is a lot a child can learn from an older person," Daly said. "We need to create and blend relationships."

"Problem solving should be done as a family with all members of the family interacting."

In addition, Daly stressed the need for "special times with individuals, when you say to that person, 'you are important to me.'"

Although their two sons — Ben, 4 and Nat

2½ — have not yet reached the major problem solving stage, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dauer enjoy family-oriented activities.

"There is no straight or ultimate motive, but a number of things come from it," explained Dauer, who is a mathematics instructor for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. "The boys have a right to do certain things."

"As children and as people they have that right," concurred Mrs. Dauer. "They have their own needs."

But the Dauers also emphasized that "we don't let them run our lives either."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dauer have separate activities which they pursue and often they socialize with other couples in the evenings.

"By getting away from your children occasionally, you enjoy them more," Mr. Dauer noted.

"Our family is a little different, I suppose," continued Mrs. Dauer, a former elementary education teacher. "Most of the things we do as a family, mothers and children do, but Jerry is more family oriented."

"He likes the outdoors and that is a natural activities for little boys."

Through camping expeditions and gardening, the Dauers hope to increase their sons' awareness of "small things like gardens and the weather and not always large and expensive things."

"For example, this year we let the boys plant some midget sweet corn and carrots," Mrs. Dauer said. "They boys saw them grow and got to eat some last night."

"They got so excited, they just about ate the cobs," she concluded, indicating the enjoyment young people can experience from the simple things in life.

Quality and quantity of time with the children are both important to the Dauer family. Even the pre-school age boys are growing their own "crops" this summer.

Mom Wants To Call Cops On Nude Hippies

DEAR ABBY: We've lived in this nice family neighborhood for fifteen years. Last September, our next-door neighbors rented their house to a group of long-haired hippies. Several young men and women are living together there, and I'm sure they aren't married.

Abby, I don't have anything against hippies, but I am worried about my children. I've tried to give them a good moral upbringing. Just yesterday I caught my teen-age son peering through the fence that separates our backyards and sure enough one of the girls was sunbathing completely naked!

My husband and I can't agree on what to do. I say we should call the police to protect our children, who are at an impressionable age. My husband thinks we should leave well enough alone. What do you think?

MENLO PARK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I vote with your husband. And tell your son to quit "peering" through the fence, or your neighbors might justifiably feel that their privacy is being violated, and THEY will call the police.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR
Forecast For Wednesday

The Pisces person can appear to be swayed, won over, intimidated. However, when the final score is shown, Pisces is not last, but usually high on the agenda and wielding a strong influence. Pisces is Neptune and the Twelfth House and here is mystery, clandestine, delicious secrecy, poetic expression and a kaleidoscope for color, feelings, impressions, numbers, urges, scenes, fairs, intuitions, out-of-body journeys. Attempting to sell Pisces short is akin to walking into a whirling, whirling machine whose blades have been honed to paper-cutting sharpness. Don't push Pisces!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take stock of relations with neighbors, relatives. You can be independent without being arrogant. You can get across views without being domineering. Know it and strive for harmony—without abandoning principles. Message will be delivered.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Trust hunch. Some persons, offering to cooperate, have ulterior motives. Know it and protect yourself. Don't be too polite. Be what you are—which is hardy, frank, direct, stubborn. Then others will get your message loud and clear—which is all to the good.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle high—get going. Be independent in thought, action. Highlight originality, creativity. Import your own style. Be conspicuous. Wear bright, summer colors. Let others know you are here and intend to do something about it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You know now that you don't know it all. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio individuals are apt to be part of picture. Accent is on what occurs out-of-sight. Get behind the scenes. Be specific, frank and practical. Enjoy sweet nothings without believing them. You will comprehend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on romance, friendship, hopes, desires. You are rewarded for past efforts. Member of opposite sex plays significant role. You make changes. You become more aware of who you are and where you want to go. Gemini, Virgo persons are in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent is on professional superiors, advancement, responsibility, standing in community. You get on more solid footing. Your lifestyle undergoes review, possible change. Taurus, Libra persons could play significant roles.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may be trying to accomplish too much, too soon. Messages, calls and correspondence have elusive qualities. Take stock. Get second wind. Travel is featured. Bring facts into focus. Pisces, Virgo persons may be in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Nothing halfway: there is intensity, added pressure, responsibility. Older individual is in picture. You will be called upon past experience, lessons learned from authority figure. Money and partnership, love and hate—these areas are highlighted.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You gain added recognition because your communications will be enhanced. More persons become aware of you. Those with problems will confide and confess. Be sympathetic without becoming needlessly involved. Aries, Libra persons are in picture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Work, routine, health, money as it affects offspring or lover. These areas are in spotlight. Maintain independent stance. Bring forth creative resources. Try new places, to dine. Review interests. You receive meaningful compliment from member of opposite sex.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emotional ties refuse to let go. Be aware of how you feel and what you intend to do about it. Your intuition works overtime. What you feel tends to dominate over what you may think or reason. Another Aquarian may be featured prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Practice, perfect, communicate and appraise—get beat on values. Reject second-hand information. Make inquiries. Insist on answers, not evasion. Deal with who is frank, even if views clash with your own.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

You may have handled poison ivy, oak or sumac last year with no ill effects, but no one is permanently immune.

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that poison ivy, oak, and sumac have appeared in city gardens; and poison ivy has been known to form a beautiful growth up the side of a house.

Poisonous oils from these plants can come your way in the smoke from a neighbor's burning trash or in your dog's coat. If you have been exposed, remove your clothing, and wash all affected areas with warm water and soap; then sponge gently with rubbing alcohol. Wear rubber gloves as you scrub your clothes in an oil solvent and soapy water and dry them in the sun. This even includes your shoelaces.

If you have contacted poison ivy, it will show up in a few hours to several days. The Nebraska Medical Association points out symptoms include itching, redness and blisters. Calamine lotion, wet dressings of boric acid or epsom salts solution may bring some relief. Call your physician if inflammation is extensive.

A mother and lifelong nursery rhyme chanter defends Mother Goose — sort of.

Come Rhyme With Me

By NANCY HICKS
Star Women's Editor

It's a long 12 hours from Indiana to Lincoln, and 12 hours times a 12-month-old child is an eternity.

It was on that first trip across the plains of Illinois and Iowa that those ditties, stored for years in the back crevasses of my mind, began popping forth... nursery rhymes to keep a youngster quietly entertained.

From then on we were both hooked — my daughter and I. As soon as the car seat buckle hit her middle the chant began, "Hey diddle diddle, Mama... how 'bout ole King Cole, Mama." And so it went from home to market from babysitter to home, a chorus of Hickory Dickories and Little Jack Horner's shouted above the ping, ping of a VW engine.

"There are some who claim that the violence of Three Blind Mice has produced generations of Hell's Angels."

There are some who claim that the violence of Three Blind Mice has produced generations of Hell's Angels, and the implication in Little Miss Muffet keeps the "weaker sex" in its place behind mops and brooms. But there is something wholesome about the beat of a long-forgotten nursery rhyme. Mixed with the bruises of Jack and Jill is the feeling of love experienced so long ago at the knees of my own mother and grandmothers.

So I banished sexism and violence theories and begin to pass along the pure fun of singing and chanting nonsense. And in the process, I discovered there is a lot more than nonsense in those verses.

"The adventure of learning, the excitement of performing can begin with something as simple as a nursery rhyme."

The adventure of learning, the excitement of performing can begin with something as simple as a nursery rhyme.

There is the pleasure of imitation as chubby little hands pound out "Pat-A-cake, pat-A-cake, baker's man."

Commonplace things become important as a little pussy cat goes to visit a queen. And the mysterious is unravelled. Laws of nature are explained. When an egg topples it breaks — forever — and not even king's men can put it together again.

There are adventures to be discovered, both real and fantastic, where spoons and dishes run away with each other, lambs must be found and kittens lose their mittens.

To land on the moon with a spaceship is a great accomplishment, but to catch sight of a cow jumping over the moon on four legs... well, there is no comparison.

Of course, there have been occasional misunderstandings. When old enough to question the validity of some rhymes, my daughter asked me, "Why do mice get on John?" For a year she had been carefully chanting Deedle, deedle dumpling, mice on John.

There's a lot to be learned from Mother Goose — learning without preachiness or boredom, learning without even being aware of it.

Monday's child is fair of face, Tuesday's child is full of grace," is more than just a list.

September has 30 days and February usually has 28, or so the rhyme goes.

There's an economics lesson in the story of hungry Simple Simon who had no penny for a pie; and simple arithmetic is chanted in "One two button your shoe." When my daughter gets to school age, maybe she can figure out for me just how many are going to St. Ives.

Children discover human nature in rhyme. Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee find that anger between friends is quickly dispelled, and what disappointed child hasn't wished for a rainy day to evaporate into sunshine?

All the Polly Finders of the world, beware: Soiled new clothes bring mother's wrath — that's reality.

Pulling Kitty's tail will drive her away — that's reality, as any kid can tell.

And if wishes were horses, beggars would ride — that's reality on a little more intellectual level.

Dishonesty has its painful reward as Tom, the piper's son and the knave of hearts both discovered.

There are even a few morals between the lines of Mother Goose. For dishonesty has its painful reward, as Tom the piper's son and the knave of hearts both quickly discovered.

For pudgy little fingers, there are lessons in muscular coordination as the itty bitty spider winds his way upward. The church and the steeple offer a remarkable truth as the fingers are uncovered.

But there's more than lessons in rhymes. A good way to initiate and sustain the joy of laughter is with the nonsense of Mother Goose.

The ludicrous maid in the garden hanging out the clothes, without a nose; the pure, tongue-popping delight of Peter Piper and his pickles, and the colorful mental image in Hark, Hark the dogs to bark.

And then there's Dr. Foster waist-deep in a puddle — even a child knows better than that.

In our house we have special rhymes for special reasons. "To market, to market" shortens the stop lights between home and Safeway, and to "Mary, Mary quite contrary," we pull the weeds and water the begonias. At bedtime, there is the perennial favorite toe-counter, "This Little Pig" and WEE Willie Winkie runs through our house each evening.

But, you meet a few lemons in your life — even in nursery rhymes — the cat drowning Little Johnny Green, Georgie Porgie (one of my daughter's favorite lemons) and Taffy, the Welshman, to name a few.

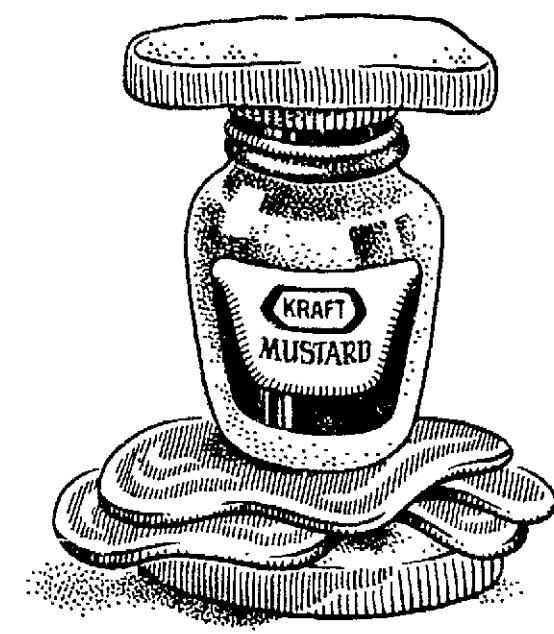

Which brings me back to my beginning — that, perhaps, nursery rhymes, steeped with violence and sexism, should be outlawed in the "ist" homes, — feminist, humanist, pacifist.

One day my daughter began hitting the dog with a toy bone while mumbling, "Taffy stole a piece of meat." That night I re-evaluated Mother Goose.

Milk Production
During April of 1974, milk production per cow averaged 901 pounds. This is slightly higher than April, 1973 when milk production stood at 899 pounds.

NO MUSTARD HAMS IT UP BETTER.

I simply reviewed and banished the worst offenders.

The Kilkenny cats who foolishly fought till they weren't still in, but that goosey, goosey gander who heaves poor old men down the stairs is definitely out, along with the very unliberated pumpkin eater.

Luckily, others have come up with some revisions a doctored up version of "Little Miss Muffet" and a completely revised "What are Little Girls and Boys Made Of" are now a part of our repertoire.

Still I worry. There will come a time when that little girl grown taller will learn she has been duped. Will she trust again? And will she wonder?

And I will say, "Yes, dear Kia, there is a Santa Claus. And she never beats her reindeer."

A Special Sharing

Today's Write On author is a member of the Sisters of Charity of Leavenworth, Kan. and works with emotionally disturbed children at St. Vincents Home in Topeka, Kan. Both Sister Therese and the teacher, Rita, in this article are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Bangert of Falls City.

BY SISTER THERESE

Friday was a special day. The trip to Omaha had not been pre-planned so the opportunity to visit my sister Rita's school was unexpected.

Rita teaches nine children who educationally are classified as TMR — Trainable Mentally Retarded. I say that I visited "her school" because her teaching facility is a building located about two miles outside of Blair, Nebraska. It is completely isolated from any other part of Blair's educational system which has its advantages and disadvantages.

The building has two big classrooms, a kitchen, a basement and a big yard that provides lots of play space.

So many impressions barged me all day that it is impossible to relate the total experience because it was an experience of eight special persons:

Nellie, an eighteen-year-old mongoloid who'd frequently come up and give you a big hug.

Linda, also a mongoloid, who pulled up her chair beside me and told me, "Therese, your hair is beautiful."

Julie, who has surprisingly delved into first-grade reading skills and whose care and mothering of her classmates makes her a "tops" teacher aide.

Shelley, whose shy smile and willingness warmed your heart.

Eddie, a beautiful child, who is non-verbal though he looks perfectly normal. The mystery of the key that would unlock communication for him is tantalizing.

Mark, "The Wise Guy", plays the role of group clown.

Frail and fragile Kevin, who loves music and this day seemed preoccupied with the fear of getting shocks.

Chip, who craves adult attention and approval and who is the mathematician of the group.

David, who is also non-verbal, was absent Friday.

I was impressed with each child. I was impressed with the family spirit that they possessed as a group — their attention to and care of each other.

At lunch they sit down together after helpers had set the table, the setting which included their homemade place mats.

"God is great, God is good! Let us thank Him for our food!"

A most enjoyable lunch followed at the end of which helpers again cleared the table, washed and dried the dishes.

Small groups worked throughout the day with "Bangert", as they warmly call Rita, though at times some of them manage "Miss Bangert", and Mrs. Divis, the full time teacher aide.

A few beginning sounds were discussed and words given that began with each sound. For every three words given, a student was entitled to one "Peanut M&M". Julie shared her four candies with Nellie who hadn't gotten any words. Clocks were used in learning time.

Music is used to teach basic skills and the children responded to the music so happily.

In fact, I can say that Friday was a "happily" day.

I witnessed eight happy children who knew freedom with restrictions, who were learning in a structured-unstructured atmosphere and who obviously felt good about themselves and who they are.

I witnessed a teacher who loves her students and accepts the good, uniqueness and mystery of each one and therefore gives them room to GROW — to surprise themselves and others.

And I can say to Rita and her class: "You've touched me deeply. I've grown!"

Opening lead — six of hearts.

First let's imagine you're an average bridge player. Then let's stretch your imagination still further and assume there's a national championship in progress at a nearby emporium, and, since you've never seen the experts play, that you decide to go there to see for yourself whether these sharks are really as good as they're cracked up to be.

You get there bright and early one day and settle down alongside Chester Sludgebucket (South), an expert who is said to be almost as good as he thinks he is.

On the very first hand he gets to three notrump. Maybe you wouldn't have bid his hand that way, but, when dummy appears, you realize that our hero luckily stumbled into the best contract.

Mr. Sludgebucket ducks two rounds of hearts and wins the third one with the ace. Since that is what you'd have done, you are not particularly impressed. But when he next leads a spade to the king you start to wonder why in the world he did this rather than run his diamonds first.

You get no time to consider the question, because Mr. S. now leads a diamond from dummy and plays low when East follows with the jack! This also proves to be a lucky shot because he winds up making three notrump, whereas he would have gone down had he earlier tried to run the diamonds by leading them from his hand.

When you go home and study the hand, you realize that it was more than just plain luck that induced Mr. S. to choose this method of play, and that maybe he knows a thing or two more about the game than the crowd you play with knows.

It kind of makes you think.

Senators Argue Consumer Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate opened debate Tuesday on a consumer protection bill viewed by sponsors as a godsend to consumers and by opponents as a fraud upon the American public.

The House-passed bill would create a consumer-protection agency with authority to intervene before courts and federal agencies on behalf of consumer interests. At least a week of debate is expected.

Almost as soon as the bill reached the floor, it ran into delaying tactics by opponents, led by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala.

And a long parliamentary tangle was resolved when the Senate agreed to vote Wednesday afternoon on an amendment by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., that would bar the consumer-protection agency from intervening in labor-management disputes.

Although other Nixon administration officials have voiced reservations about the bill, President Nixon's consumer-affairs adviser, Virginia Knauer, calls it the most important consumer bill in her five years on the job.

Numerous consumer groups and some corporations — such as Montgomery Ward — are supporting the bill, but most lobbyists for business and industry are actively opposing it.

Sponsors, led by Ribicoff and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., say the foremost responsibility of the proposed consumer-protection agency would be to speak out for consumers in court and agency matters dealing with health, safety and economic wellbeing of the American people.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., whose Government Operations Committee approved the bill over his opposition, said the administrator of the agency would become "a Caesar within the federal bureaucracy."

"We rise against this Caesar not because we desire consumer protection less, but because we desire good government more," he said. The administrator, Ervin added, would be responsible to no one but would possess the power to bring actions of several government agencies to a halt.

Ribicoff, in opening debate on the bill, said the existence of a consumer-protection agency could have saved the lives of 344 persons who died last March in the crash of a DC10 jet near Paris, by demanding that FAA require the manufacturer of the plane to correct a fault with a cargo door.

"This legislation should help end the consumer's mistrust of government," Ribicoff said. "It will guarantee that henceforth there will be someone in Washington to speak for him in the halls and hearing rooms of the federal government."

TINKERING . . . with one of 25 Hudsons is collector Jacks.

Collector Calls Old Hudson Foundation Of Automobiles

WEST POINT, Va. (AP) — Joseph P. Jacks, a 70-year-old retired mill worker, lays claim to 31 "children": Five sons, one daughter and 25 Hudson automobiles.

The Hudson hasn't been manufactured since 1957, three years after the company merged with American Motors. But, says Jacks, it was practically the foundation of all automobiles.

"It's the most copied car in the world," he says. "It's also still the safest on the road today."

Jacks began restoring old Hudsons that others had given up for junk in 1960, transforming them into smooth-running, brightly polished roadsters. He now has five in top-notch condition.

The pride of his collection is a Hudson Hornet he has owned since it was new in 1954. Two years ago he drove it to California and back, "and it outran everything on the road. I turned down $7,000 for it. I also turned down two Lincolns."

And his 1954 Hudson Jet — "That's the first compact ever built. No one wanted one that small, then. Now, what do they want? Cars just like it."

Jacks admits that many of the Hudsons he's rescued from the junk heap might never get into working condition. Making the old cars run is his part-time hobby, and he makes almost all the needed parts, since parts for Hudsons are extra scarce these days.

Jacks is proud of the Hudson's history. In stock car races, he says, "It won every time. It outran them all."

And on the highway, he adds, it still does.

To prove his point, he takes his Hornet out on the back roads around this eastern Virginia town, hitting the gas pedal until the car zooms like a jet. Jacks grins.

"When the people of West Point see a Hudson fly by," he says, "they know it's Joseph P. Jacks."

White House Asks Long-Range Public TV Funding

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House has sent to Congress a bill to provide for the first time long-range federal financing for the nation's public broadcasting stations and much more money.

The bill would provide five years of financing at the rate of $1 for each $2.50 the public broadcasters raise.

Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, submitted the bill Tuesday after persuading President Nixon to endorse it, sources said. They said Nixon had turned down the proposal earlier.

The government would deposit into a new Public Broadcasting Fund to be set up in the Treasury up to $70 million for fiscal year 1976 which starts next July 1, $80 million for fiscal 1977, $90 million for fiscal 1978, $95 million for fiscal 1979 and $100 million for fiscal 1980.

This compares with $5 million in 1969, the first year of such financing, and $60 million proposed this year, the second year of a two-year authorization.

The bill is a compromise between the White House; the Public Broadcasting Corporation, which handles the federal funds; and the Public Broadcasting Service, which provides the network of educational stations. The big difference was that the corporation wanted more federal money.

In a letter to House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., Whitehead said "this multi-year appropriation provision will minimize the possibility of any government scrutiny of or influence on programming that might occur in the course of the usual annual budgetary, authorization and appropriation process."

"In addition," he said, "it will enable the corporation and local stations to undertake advance program planning with assurance as to the level of federal funds available in the foreseeable future."

James R. Killian, chairman of the corporation's board of directors, CPB President Henry Loomis and Hartford N. Gunn, president of the PBS, all welcomed the action as an important step.

Noting that the corporation had proposed a funding ceiling starting at $100 million the first year and rising to $200 million the fifth year, Loomis said:

"We have agreed to disagree on the ceilings, but when you consider how far along we have come since 1972, I think we are all impressed with the good faith and positive approach reflected in this White House move."

Gunn said "the President's action . . . is a most welcome first step toward providing the financial support sought for the institution since its inception."

The proposal includes a departure from the usual practice of separate authorization and appropriations bills by combining the two.

Whitehead stressed that local stations have a "substantial role in the decision-making processes regarding the distribution of federal funds to stations." The corporation would be required to consult with them on this distribution.

The $1 to $2.50 matching formula is based on a provision that the government will provide 40 per cent of the amount the broadcasters raised the previous year up to the spending ceilings in the bill.

Blatant Discrimination Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortgage lenders continue to discriminate against racial and ethnic minorities in subtle ways but they're often blatant in discriminating against women, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said Tuesday.

"For minorities and women, the mortgage finance system is a stacked deck — stacked sometimes inadvertently, often unthinkingly, but stacked nonetheless," reported a commission study focusing on real estate brokers and lending institutions in Hartford, Conn.

The report urged tighter government regulations to prevent discriminatory practices, and amending of the 1968 Civil Rights Act to prohibit sex discrimination in credit and mortgages.

"While discrimination against minorities by Hartford lenders is subtle, discrimination against women is blatant," the study concluded. "Minority women suffer the double effect of both sex and race discrimination."

15 Women Enroll In U.S. Academy

KINGS POINT, N.Y. (AP) — The first women to enroll in a federal service academy checked in at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy on Tuesday to a mixed reaction from male students.

The 15 women were among 347 plebes reporting for four years of training to prepare them for careers as ship engineers or deck officers.

The girls and their male counterparts went through a tightly controlled processing, standing rigidly at attention and snapping out "Yes, sir!" to upper classmen.

Fred Thiabeau, 20, of Gardiner, Maine, said that about half of the 1,000-man student body

Outbreak of Anthrax Threatens Stockmen

Marlin, Tex. (UPI) — National Guardsmen and animal inspectors manned roadblocks Tuesday to stop the movement of diseased cattle infected by an outbreak of anthrax that threatens the state's beef industry.

"It could wipe out the whole country if it's not checked," said a Falls County veterinarian. "We can check it if we have an effective quarantine. Most everybody is scared, but we don't need stupid things like hauling cattle to sale."

A Texas Animal Health Commission spokesman said, "You don't need but one to sneak out of an incubating area. The whole idea is not to overreact, but to get on with the thing and stop it, and prevent movement."

The eastern half of Falls County was placed under quarantine Friday, with roadblocks set up resented the presence of women on campus.

"The fact is, they think the girls will get special privileges," Thiabeau said.

Thiabeau complained that some women cadets want such careers as oceanography or teaching.

"That's not what we are here for, really," he said.

The academy program — including two six-month stints at sea — prepares officers for American merchant vessels. Graduates receive bachelor of science degrees and are eligible for licenses as either third assistant engineer or third mate.

Gurney Pleads Innocent

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., pleaded innocent Tuesday to federal charges stemming from a secret $233,000 fund.

Gurney, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, and six other men were indicted last week by a grand jury.

The charges stem from a fund allegedly collected in Gurney's behalf from Florida builders hoping for influence with federal housing officials.

Arraignment is still pending for the six others — a Gurney aide, a former Gurney aide, two former Florida Republican party officials and two housing officials. All were charged with conspiracy.

After pleading innocent to charges of conspiracy, bribery, cover-up and perjury, Gurney told reporters that he intends to complete his term and at the moment is still a candidate for re-election in the fall.

"I'm a candidate now, but the indictment does require an assessment," he said. Gurney is the first U.S. senator in 50 years to be indicted while in office.

Asked if he would rule out resignation, Gurney said: "I don't want to give the impression I will resign."

Hungry Men Protesting 'Intervention'

Mexico City (UPI) — Seventy-one Americans imprisoned here on narcotics charges said Tuesday they were in the seventh day of a hunger strike to protest U.S. government intervention with Mexican authorities to keep them behind bars as long as possible.

In an interview at Lecumberri Men's Prison they claimed they were being "victimized" with stiff prison terms or simply not being brought to trial because of "pressure" by American narcotics agents on Mexican judges.

The U.S. embassy has denied the allegation, first made last week.

The report said investigators found the treatment of women seeking mortgages varied according to whether they were married, unmarried, widowed, separated or divorced, but none received the same treatment as men.

It asserted that "traditional mortgage lending criteria followed by Hartford mortgage lenders virtually require sex discrimination. Under these criteria, women are automatically considered suspect risks."

A major difficulty, the report said, is that "the income of married women, a substantial percentage of whom are gainfully employed, is considered 'secondary' and rarely credited more than 50 per cent, if at all, in determining a family's financial status."

It said this practice has particularly hurt minority families, where more women are heads of households.

Young, unmarried women have the most trouble getting home mortgages, mainly because lenders assume they will marry, have children and stop working, the report said.

The study noted that among banks and other lending institutions, "women are abundantly represented as employees ... but almost entirely in low-level positions which carry no authority to influence the policies of the institutions."

Federal law contains no prohibition against sex discrimination in mortgage lending, according to the report.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates federal savings and loan associations, issued guidelines in December 1973 on even-handed lending practices with respect to age, sex and marital status.

The report said the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, with supervision over most of the nation's commercial banks, has been pondering a regulation to ban sex discrimination in lending for more than a year but has not yet acted.

go to sea.

"I want a career on a ship as a deck officer and hopefully one day as captain of a ship," she said. "I think it would be an exciting and adventuresome life."

Teresa Olsen, 17, of Washington, D.C., who said she eventually wants to be an oceanographer on a research vessel, noted she wasn't attending the academy just to be among its first women.

"The opportunities the school has to provide are fantastic," she said.

A male plebe, Mike Parker, 18, of Scottsdale, Ariz., said the women "have every right in the world to come, so long as they meet the standards that we do and follow through with the routine — no special privileges."

An academy spokesman said all cadets would be treated the same "as far as humanly possible."

Suit Will Challenge School Aid Law

A suit challenging efforts to put a $160 million state aid to schools law on the November ballot will be filed by the end of this week, it was learned Tuesday.

Ross Rasmussen, executive director of the Nebraska State School Boards Association, said following a conference with legal counsel, "Action will be taken within the week."

That action, he said, may be filed with the Nebraska Supreme Court with a request that the court take original jurisdiction in the case instead of waiting for it to come on appeal from the district court.

Rasmussen said the final determination on whether to go to the Supreme Court first will hinge probably on which route is the more practical and faster.

Rasmussen did not name the plaintiffs in the suit, but Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said Tuesday he would be a party to the court case.

Last Wednesday, Sen. Ramey

Whitney, Sen. David Stahmer and S. H. "Zeke" Brauer, lobbyist of the Nebraska School Improvement Association, turned over 37,000 signatures of registered voters to put the issue on the November ballot.

The law, which was passed by the 1974 Legislature over Gov. J. James Exon's veto, increases the level of state support for education from $55 million a year to $160 million. The law is intended to shift much of the burden of financing education from the property tax payer to the sales and income tax payers.

The School Boards Association this past weekend went on record in support of a legal challenge to Whitney's apparent success in getting the state aid issue on the November ballot.

The basis for the suit, Rasmussen said, is that the schools are a state function. And, he said, a constitutional responsibility of the Legislature cannot be subject to a referendum.

Cozad Police Chief Fired

Cozad (AP) — Cozad Mayor Ivan Svoboda has fired George Jackson, chief of police since June 1966.

The mayor said he asked for Jackson's resignation with the backing of the Cozad City Council, but Jackson refused to offer it. Jackson, 62, was granted severance pay.

Svoboda named office assistant Alfred Budu as acting chief.

The mayor declined to say what prompted his call for Jackson's resignation, but the chief said he and the mayor "had a misunderstanding concerning the pickup of stray dogs."

Judges Worried About Inconsistency In Language Of Old, New Bail Laws

Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum and District Judge William Blue have indicated they are concerned about an apparent conflict between an old and a new bail law.

State Court Administrator James Dunlevey and Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, while agreeing there is a literal inconsistency, say the difference causes "no serious problems" when construed in "a broader interpretation."

The new law (LB828), which liberalizes bail conditions, directs judges to release persons facing criminal charges on personal recognizance following a preliminary hearing unless other factors indicate they would not return to appear in court. The judge can then impose additional conditions upon the release, including bail.

The old law, which Luedtke said may have been inadvertently missed when the new law was drafted, makes no such provision for release unless bail is made.

Judge Slocum asked, "What's a judge going to do? Which law is right?"

Luedtke said the conflicting language "poses no insurmountable problems." Although the old was not repealed specifically, he said the obvious intent of the Legislature was to provide alternatives to bail.

"The judges can see the intent of the Legislature," Luedtke said. "I hope they look at that intent and try to meet that intent."

Dunlevey said he had the question called to his attention by Judge Blue, but he said he foresees "no serious problems."

G.I. Council Approves Budget For Next Year

Grand Island (AP) — Meeting Monday, the Grand Island City Council approved its operating budget for the coming year, while the Grand Island School Board took the same action on its budget for the 1974-75 school year.

The school board approved a budget of $7.2 million, which includes a $450,000 cash reserve. Last year's budget totaled $6,348,908.

The new budget will force a 2.75-mill increase in the property tax levy for school support. Most of the increase was attributed to teacher salary and fringe benefit increases.

GOP Committee To Be Headed By Beermann

Former Nebraska Congressman Ralph Beermann will head a committee working for election of the Republican gubernatorial ticket.

Beermann, of Dakota City, will head an advisory steering committee that will center on "over-all campaign policy" for State Sen. Richard Marvel and his running mate, Mrs. Anne Batchelder.

The appointment was announced by Max Denney, state chairman of the Marvel-Batchelder team.

Mrs. William "Kay" Orr of Lincoln was named cochairman of the committee. She is a former national young Republican committeewoman from Nebraska. Other committee officers include Mrs. John "Phyllis" Lainsen of Hastings, secretary, and Earl Luff of Lincoln, treasurer.

UPI Official Named

Washington (UPI)—Peter N. Baylor has been appointed Baltimore bureau manager of United Press International, Mid Atlantic region manager Douglas A. Gripp announced.

tributed to teacher salary and fringe benefit increases.

Next year, Grand Islanders will pay 60.02 mills per $1,000 of assessed valuation to support their school district.

At the same time, residents will find a small drop in the millage levy for support of the city government.

The City Council approved a budget of $22,331,884, for fiscal 1974-75, up 8.5 per cent from the current year.

However, the mill levy will drop from the current 28.599 mills to 28.575 mills.

Suit Contests Valuation Of Yancey Hotel

Grand Island (UPI) — The second Island Development Corp., owner of the Yancey Hotel here, has filed suit against the Hall County Board of Equalization contesting the valuation placed on the building.

The suit filed in Hall County District Court asked for a court order to lower the valuation of the hotel property from $113,000 to $70,600.

A representative of the corporation protested the valuation to the Equalization Board last month, but the board failed to alter the figures.

The corporation said the valuation should be lowered for four reasons: location, functional use, zoning and market value of the property.

It said the valuation should be compared with other property of recognizable value.

Candidates Run For State Board

Dean A. McGee, M.D. of Lexington and J. Paul McIntosh of Norfolk have been named candidates for the office of second vice president of the Nebraska State School Boards Association.

The election will be held during the association's annual convention Nov. 14-15 in Lincoln.

Zorinsky Suggests City Income Tax

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky took his proposed 1975 city budget to the City Council Tuesday, recommending a revenue boost through a city income tax that would be tied to the federal income tax.

Zorinsky's proposed budget totals $83,270,902, an increase of 5.6 per cent in spending over the budget for the current year.

However, despite the increase, Zorinsky claims the budget will not cause a rise in property taxes. The levy used to support city government would continue at 25.6 mills per $1,000 of assessed valuation, under Zorinsky's plan.

Instead of an increase in property taxes, Zorinsky recommended that the city seek state legislation permitting a city income tax beginning in 1976.

Justifying the recommendation, the mayor said, "We are all caught in the midst of the worst inflationary spiral since the end of World War II."

The issue of a city income tax would have to be approved by the voters, Zorinsky added.

The proposed city income tax would not be levied without some other benefits for Omaha residents.

According to Zorinsky, the income levy would allow the repeal of "nuisance" taxes such as the $8-per-vehicle wheel tax now in effect. Zorinsky said the income tax might also be a means of lowering property taxes.

Zorinsky's tax proposal would also be more palatable to state lawmakers than the earnings tax he proposed earlier this year.

The earnings tax would have affected all persons deriving income from work in Omaha, whether the person lived in Omaha or not. The latest recommendation would affect Omahans only.

Zorinsky told the council that if there was no income tax by 1976, that the city would have to cutback on services and lay off employees.

Council members will mull the budget proposals for several weeks before taking final action in mid-August.

Omahan Charged In Fatal Accident

Omaha (AP) — The Douglas County Attorney's office has formally charged an Omaha man with felony motor vehicle homicide in connection with a auto-pedestrian accident Sunday that took the life of an Omaha girl.

The charges were formally filed in Douglas County District Court against Joseph John Kochelek, 74, according to Deputy County Atty. Jerome Kinney.

Kochelek was the driver of a car that careened out of control Sunday afternoon, hitting a tree, then going up on a sidewalk into a group of five girls who were on their way to get some ice cream.

Three of the girls were struck by the auto.

One of the girls, Christine Diggins, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Diggins, was carried about 30 feet on the hood of the car, and crushed against a house, according to witnesses.

She died about one hour later in an hospital.

One of the girls struck by the car was hospitalized with a pelvic injury, the other was treated for leg injuries and was released.

Kinney said Kochelek's bond remains at $1,000, and that Kochelek is being treated at a local hospital for chest pains he suffered after being jailed Sunday night.

Due to Kochelek's hospitalization, a preliminary hearing was not set.

Yugoslav Ship Sinks

BARI, Italy (AP) — The 2,092-ton Yugoslav freighter Cavtat sank after a collision with an 11,000-ton freighter of Panamanian registry four miles off Cape Otranto in eastern Italy. Maritime authorities said all 30 of the Cavtat's crewmen were rescued by the other ship, the Lady Rita.

Mail Check Leads To Omahan's Arrest

Omaha (UPI) — Recent indictments in drug cases by a federal grand jury here can be traced to inspection of mail coming into the United States from overseas, a government attorney said Tuesday.

Thomas D. Thalken, assistant U.S. district attorney here, said the indictments returned last week against Gregory Meadows, 26, and Sgt. Edward Taylor, who recently returned from Thailand, were the result of an inspection of routine mail. Routine, that is, except for the bulky envelopes.

A customs agent at Oakland, Calif., noticed the envelopes, opened them for inspection, and found what appeared to be heroin packed in small plastic bags enclosed with a greeting card from Thailand.

The letters were then resealed and sent on their way to an Omaha area address. Once the letters were delivered, officers presented a warrant and seized them and their contents.

Authorities estimated the first shipment of heroin to the Omaha address would have had a resale value of about $150,000, Thalken said. A second delivery might have been worth half that.

In Thailand, Air Force intelligence officers soon had under surveillance a sergeant at a Thai Air Force station.

The government put together its case, presented it to the grand jury, and last week took Meadows and Taylor into custody. Both are charged with conspiracy to import and distribute heroin. Taylor was charged also with 33 counts of importing and distributing heroin.

In a similar incident, Daniel Nicek, 20, former Navy man, was arrested and charged with mailing hashish back to his girl in Omaha. In this case, authorities said, the hashish was sniffed out by a trained dog at the customs headquarters in New York. He was apprehended as he arrived home to greet his parents.

HEW Secretary To Attend Ceremony

Omaha (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Caspar W. Weinberger will be here Wednesday for ground breaking ceremonies at the $43.6 million hospital and office-outpatient building planned by St. Joseph Hospital, adjacent to the Creighton University campus.

Not all of the $50 million in loans for the project have been obtained yet because of the tight money situation, officials reported. However, the Creighton Omaha Regional Health Care Corp., which is in charge of the project, does not anticipate any difficulty in borrowing the remainder of the needed funds.

Contracts for the construction of the buildings are expected to be signed in the near future, with actual work starting immediately afterwards.

The 403-bed hospital and adjoining outpatient building, which will occupy a 17-acre tract, are targeted for completion in 1978.

Trans-Basin Diversion Of Water Supported

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Aurora — Gov. J. James Exon and University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner joined forces here Tuesday to support off-season trans-basin diversion of water.

Exon noted a suggestion that water should be moved from one river basin to another for use in irrigation projects would have caused a governor to be "ridden out of the state on a rail a few years ago."

The governor told a group of 100 irrigation enthusiasts he had received a letter from a Texas legal firm inquiring about Nebraska's official attitude toward a canal to be constructed across several states to move irrigation water from Canada to Texas.

"They have an eye on the surplus water that is spilling out of our state unused," Exon said.

More Water Needed

Varner, who came to Nebraska from Texas, agreed that the Texans needed more water to grow crops.

"There is no question but what the ground water level in the upper Blue River Basin in Nebraska is dropping. It will reach a critical level before the year 2000," Varner predicted.

"The problem can be solved by a surface water recharge system, and I think it is high time that we get going on the project," he added.

Varner was careful to phrase his advocacy of moving water to "off-season transfer of surplus water from one river basin to another."

A day-long tour by bus that began in the dryland area around Lincoln and ended in the Central Nebraska (Tri-County) Public Power and Irrigation District near Holdrege provided ample proof of the advantages of irrigation.

Stunted Corn

The group saw stunted corn suffering from lack of water in Lancaster County.

Corn in the irrigated areas was in sharp contrast — more than seven-feet tall, well tasseled, dark green and with many stocks having two or more ears developing.

Milo fields are shooting grain-filled heads in the irrigated areas in contrast to the dryland crop which has stopped growing due to lack of moisture.

The irrigated areas are experiencing sharply declining ground water tables in York and Hamilton Counties.

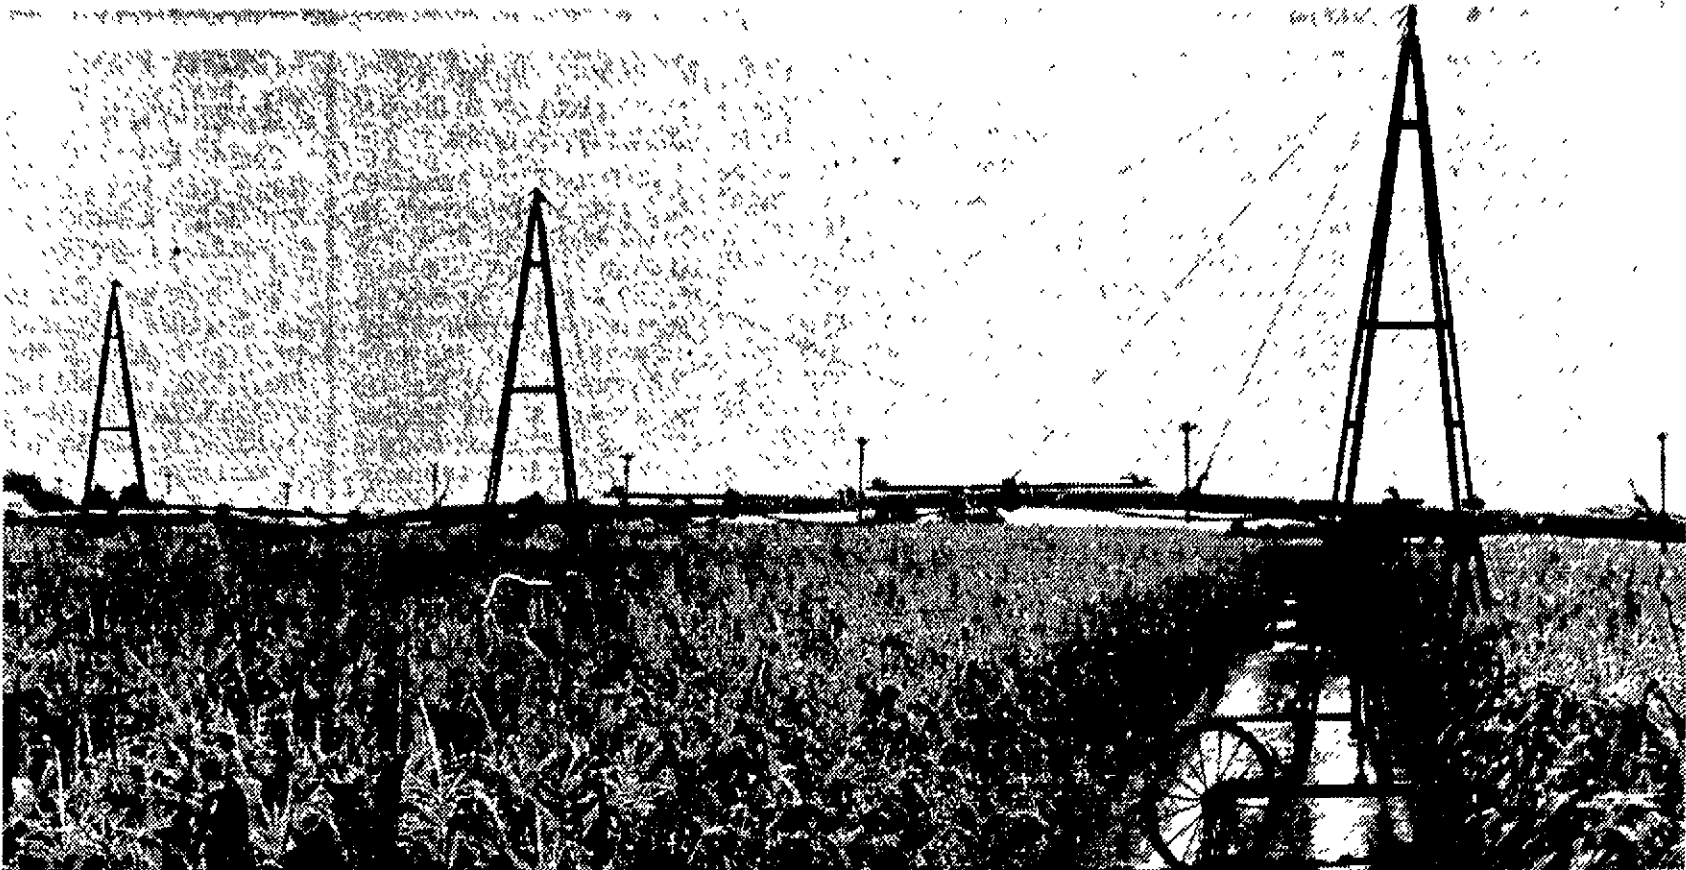

Farmers on the tour reported irrigation wells, which had been deepened last winter, were already sucking air as ground water levels dropped.

Around The Clock

Farmers are pumping their irrigation wells around the clock seven days a week in an effort to keep up with the demand for water by thirsty crops.

Ground water levels in the Tri-County District were reported to be stabilizing this year. However, district officials are still concerned about the danger of seepage from irrigation ditches flooding some low-lying areas.

The tour visitors saw irrigation ditches lined with rubber sheets, concrete and buried concrete pipes being used by the district to counteract the seepage problem which has raised ground water levels in the area.

CENTER-PIVOT SPRINKLERS. . . make life easier for Harry Maronde, but he still keeps busy.

Watered Corn Ahead; Irrigators Still Worry

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York County — While dryland corn scorches in the dry wind and hot sunlight, watered corn is already silking, pollinating and shooting upward as much as three weeks ahead of normal in this heavily irrigated county.

Still, farmers with irrigation systems are worried — if not as much as their dryland neighbors.

"When you've got your life at stake, you've got to worry a little," said Archie Trollope, who owns 250 acres of sharecropped irrigated corn south of Gresham.

"Rain would do more than just the good it would do the crops," said Harry Hecht, York County extension agent. "Everybody's feeling rather down in the mouth right now. After all, you do get tired. It's such hot weather. It's hard on everyone."

But after nearly 40 days of drouth, there's still no rain in the weather forecast. And the longer it goes without rain, the harder an irrigator has to work to keep his corn moist, and the less time the ground has to soak up each application of water.

Some farmers with few or small pumps don't have the capacity to apply adequate moisture to all their corn — and must settle for a partial crop of healthy corn of a full crop of partially dried-out, stunted corn.

With everyone pumping continuously, the groundwater is declining in some places. And the more it declines, the less each farmer can pump before encountering "coming" (a cone-shaped decline of groundwater around his well).

If his well isn't extremely deep, coning causes "surging," or pumping of air. Since surging can damage a pump, that means the irrigator has to desist until water can refill the cone around his well.

More Fuel Used

And if his well is deep enough to avoid surging, he still has to expend more fuel to pump the water the extra distance to the surface. Diesel and propane fuel prices have doubled since last year.

It may be the year when irrigation runoff controls come into their own here. Groundwater regulations, requiring reuse of runoff, are now in the implementation stage by the Upper Big Blue Association of Groundwater Districts and are scheduled to be enforced starting Jan. 1, 1975.

Public response to the regulations has been favorable, Hecht said, because "after all it costs money to pump water, and once you've lifted it out of the ground, it doesn't cost much to move it around and reuse it."

More people have called to complain about water waste by their neighbors than about the regulations, Hecht said.

One farmer benefiting from reuse of his irrigation runoff was Allan Kohtz, who irrigates by gated pipe, ditch and center-pivot sprinkler just north of York. All his systems drain into a single reuse reservoir.

Kohtz and worker Ardean Richtert, working fast to lay pipe for pumping water out of the reuse reservoir into their gated pipe system, paused a moment to explain the use of the runoff water.

"If we're caught up on corn we sprinkle pasture with it," said Kohtz. But this year there hasn't been the slightest chance to catch up on corn, he said. "Right now we're going after that burnt-up corn over there."

He showed a 15-acre patch of stunted corn he and Richtert had bypassed because they simply weren't able to move the water around fast enough. Standing only about three feet tall (compared to the seven or eight feet attained by the tassels of his watered corn), it can be saved, he said. But it will yield less than half the output of the irrigated corn.

Valuable Water

"It's pretty valuable water," said Kohtz. "If we didn't have it this year, we'd be in trouble."

"There's always something to do," said Kohtz, explaining that the cumbersome gated pipe has to be moved every 12 hours (or 24 where the rows are long).

The ditch system requires even more labor, he said, since each ditch must be dug out each year. Fortunately for Kohtz, a quarter-section of his land is watered by center pivot, which requires a lot less labor.

Even so, he and Richtert have been working 15 or 16 hours a day, seven days a week, since watering began about July 5, Kohtz said. And since a new application must begin immediately after the previous application is finished, there's no end in sight until there is rain.

So far, Kohtz has had no trouble with his wells. "If we have to keep pumping another month, there are going to be signs," he said. "It's been darn-near 40 days since we got anything you could call precipitation."

Some farmers in the northeast part of the county — especially around Gresham — aren't in such good shape. There, declining groundwater is causing numerous reports of surging.

Well driller Ken Volzke of Utica, who services many of the wells in the Gresham area, is 40 orders behind in supplying "column" (pipe) extending customers, wells, all because shortages in the irrigation industry.

Slowing Foreseen

"I don't believe that any of 'em will go clear dry," said Volzke, "but it looks like all of 'em will slow up some, even the shallower ones. Some of 'em are not going to save all their corn unless it gets a little help from the rain."

In the last week, Volzke said, he has had more than 50 calls for column to add to wells. Many pumps are breaking down as well, but it takes two or three weeks for parts to arrive.

One bright spot from Hecht: the corn growth pattern is about three weeks ahead of normal, since much of the watering started early because of drouth. Moisture blocks indicate that the corn is drawing moisture from the three-foot depth three weeks early as well.

Could that mean an early harvest? Hecht: "It sure could."

Council Says Gasoline Use Up 2.1% in '73

Nebraskans used more than 936.7 million gallons of gasoline during 1973, according to the Nebraska Petroleum Council.

Charles E. Chace, council executive director, said the figure is a 2.1% increase over the 917.2 million gallons consumed in 1972.

Nationwide, gasoline consumption in 1973 exceeded 106 billion gallons, 4.3% more than the year before, the council report said.

Every state except Kansas reported increases. Consumption there decreased 1.2% in 1973, the report said.

Exon Offers DeCamp Some Advice

Ravenna (AP) — Gov. J. James Exon has advised State Sen. John DeCamp to run his own campaign and keep his suggestions to himself. Appearing here for the annual Ann-E-Var celebration, Exon responded to a suggestion by DeCamp that the gubernatorial candidates agree to joint mailing of campaign literature as a money-saving measure. "As governor," Exon said, "I'll run my campaign the way I think it should be run and I thank John for his suggestion, but I'd rather do it myself, John."

Two Grants Go To Kearney State

Kearney (UPI) — Kearney State College has been awarded two federal grants totaling nearly $10,000. One is a $4,967 undergraduate instructional equipment grant which is funded through the U.S. Office of Education. It requires matching funds from the college. The second grant is a Title II — a basic library resources grant for $4,255.

Thramer Enters Not Guilty Plea

Omaha (UPI) — J. Alex Thramer of Ewing, owner of the Two Rivers Steak House, has entered a plea of not guilty in U.S. District Court here to charges of violating federal withholding tax laws. The government charged that Thramer failed to make special deposits to a trust account for federal income taxes withheld from wages of employees at the restaurant.

Thone To Address Peru State Grads

Peru — Rep. Charles Thone, Neb., will address Peru State College summer graduates and guests during Friday, Aug. 9, commencement ceremonies. The 2.30 p.m. program will be held in the Fine Arts Auditorium. A reception honoring the graduates will be held following the ceremony. The event will be the final formal summer commencement at Peru State, according to college officials, with all future yearly graduates to participate in spring commencement activities.

Water Supply Back To Normal

Papillion (AP) — A severely reduced water supply has returned to near normal. The supply had been limited by a broken main which cut off two principal wells Saturday. Starting Tuesday, Papillion returned to its alternate lawn watering schedule. Cause of the breakage was believed to be a large pile of dirt from a construction site which caused settlement around the water main.

Bennet Girl Chosen Miss Otoe County

Nebraska City — Sheri Kreifels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kreifels of Bennet, was named Miss Otoe County for 1974 at the pageant held here. Diane Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Roberts of Unadilla, was chosen first runner-up and Miss Congeniality. Second runner-up honors went to Gayle Lynn Winkler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Winkler of Dunbar.

Brown Award To Welsh

By United Press International
Lowell A. Welsh, president emeritus of the Milford campus of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area, has been named the recipient of the Richard C.

Welsh, a 1930 graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, was chief administrator of the Milford campus from 1945, when it was the Milford trade School with a faculty of four, until his retirement a year ago. Present enrollment is more than 700 students.

Death Toll

The governor's Highway Safety Advisory Committee held an emergency meeting Tuesday, and said it would soon announce plans to help curb "Nebraska's suddenly spiraling traffic death toll."

Records show the state has recorded 26 traffic-related deaths in the past eight days. There have been 37 traffic deaths in the month of July as of Tuesday, compared with 16 in the same period last year.

Brief Says Knox Co. Court Erred

By United Press International
A brief filed in the State Supreme Court Tuesday said Knox County District Court erred when it denied a new trial to 15-year-old Antonio Almojo Laravie.

The youth, originally charged with first degree murder in the death of a boy — Chad Olson — at Niobrara on Aug. 18, 1973, later pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

He was sentenced to not less than 55 years nor more than life. The brief said the sentence was excessive and represents an abuse of discretion.

Age Not Considered?
The defense claimed the court

Curb Plans Expected

increases in fatalities on our county road system where deaths are up 50% over last year," said John L. Sullivan, director of the state's highway safety program. Sullivan also said urban street deaths are up 22% over last year.

Sullivan said motorcycle accidents and deaths related to railroad-vehicle accidents have increased.

He said the committee would announce plans for "an assault on these problem areas."

Records show Nebraska has failed to give adequate consideration to Laravie's youth, his guilty plea and the fact that none of his previous convictions involved violence to another person. In addition, the brief said, there was inadequate support for the finding that Laravie was a dangerous offender.

The brief gave this review of the case:

Chad Wilson had put his stepson to bed the night of Aug. 17 and later locked the screen doors on his house, but left the solid doors open as it was quite hot.

Noise Heard

Later that night, Wilson's wife awoke him and said she had heard a noise and could see recorded 201 traffic deaths this year, compared with 211 in the same time period last year.

Sullivan noted that through June the state's traffic death count was running substantially below last year's.

Sullivan said traffic deaths on the state highway system are down by 28%, and inter-state traffic deaths are down by 38%.

He attributed the lower fatality rate on those highways, in part, to the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit.

During the trial there was testimony that Laravie and several companions drank a considerable amount of beer and whisky the afternoon and night preceding the death of the boy early the morning of Aug. 18.

The autopsy report concluded death was caused by a chest wound to the heart.

McCollister Urges Cost Control Panel

Washington (AP) — Rep. John Y. McCollister has called for creation of a bipartisan committee of the House, Senate and Executive Branch to review and limit activities by the federal government.

"The cost of government is too high," the 2nd District Republican said in a weekly newsletter. "A dollar spent by the government is a dollar you could have decided how to spend yourself. It's time to give back the decision-making power to those who earn the money."

McCollister said he believes if inflation is not quickly curbed, "free political institutions will disappear."

He said the solution is to "cut the growth of government which is soaking up all the savings to finance its debts and loans," he said.

McCollister said there have been tremendous increases in public debt and loan guarantees by federal, state and local governments and estimated the federal total at $130 billion in the past four or five years.

The government has priority in borrowing, McCollister said and "the private sector has to bid for what's left after Uncle Sam has taken what he needs and wants."

The Federal Reserve then increases the supply of money to give the illusion that there is more to go around, he said. "But before very long it makes prices go up, including the price we pay to borrow money."

"In the end, the farmer, small manufacturer, indeed everyone, suffers, particularly those on fixed incomes."

Cattle Enthusiasts Participate In 1st Simmental Progress Day

Firth — Some 850 cattle enthusiasts from nine states took part in the Nebraska Simmental Association's first Simmental Progress and Field Day held at the Harlan Doeschot Ranch here.

In the steer show, Melanie Forster of Smithfield exhibited the grand champion, a Simmental-Hereford crossbred. The win netted her a trophy and $100 sponsored by Fred Hartman of Wood River.

Reserve champion steer honors went to Larry Fosler of Milford with a three-fourths Simmental bred by Bob Ries of Wood Lake.

A Simmental-Angus shown by Jan Brand of Fremont was named winner in the "Special Steer Class" and reserve was shown by Russ Euker of Cumberland, Iowa.

A total of 38 steers were shown before judge Mike Hartman of Wood River.

In the Simmental heifer show, judges Rod Ogren and Ron Daly, both of Iowa, selected a three-fourths Simmental heifer exhibited by Doug Satee of Craig. Reserve champion among the 17 heifer entries was also a three-fourths Simmental, shown by Karen Mackley of Arnold.

In a judging contest held during the field day, FFA teams from Blair, Tri-County (DeWitt) and Beatrice placed first, second and third, respectively. Team winners in the 4-H division were Webster, Gage and Washington Counties.

The top three winners in the men's division were Van Volk of Battle Creek, Ron Ringland of Bennett and Del Puls of Murray. Women's division winners were Kay Ries, Wood Lake; Diana Puls, Murray; and Teresa Lambert, Palco, Kan.

Individual 4-H winners included Jamie Ord, Webster; Kevin Forster, Smithfield; and Ronnie Ringland, Bennett.

At the conclusion of the day, young Simmental fans met to form the Nebraska Junior Simmental Association, temporarily headed up by president Peg Doeschot of Firth. Other officers elected were Larry Fosler, Milford, vice-president; Jill Shepard, Hyannis, secretary-treasurer; and Jan Brand, Fremont, news reporter.

It'll Barely Be Noticed, But Cool Front Coming

Although a weak cool front entered Nebraska's Panhandle Tuesday afternoon and will cross the state Wednesday and Thursday, it will barely be noticed.

Hot weather will continue both days with highs from the lower 90's to around the century mark, according to the forecast.

Widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers are likely in the west Wednesday and Thursday the National Weather Service predicted.

There's no mention of moisture in the forecast for parched eastern Nebraska.

Temperatures soared back into the high 90's Tuesday, topped by 99 at Valentine, 98 at Lincoln, Grand Island and Chadron, 95 at Norfolk, Burwell and Imperial.

Lows early Tuesday varied from 71 at Chadron to a cool 59 at Omaha. A few light showers occurred in central Nebraska during the day.

As has been the case for the past week, the NWS continued the fire and livestock safety index in the danger category into Wednesday due to the heat and low humidity in the state.

Train Starts Several Fires

Plattsmouth (UPI) — The hot, dry weather and sparks from a passing Missouri Pacific freight train were blamed for a number of fires along the tracks Tuesday between Mynard and Plattsmouth.

The worst of the fires was reported along Highway 73-75 just south of the Winterset Inn. At one time during the height of that fire, officials said the smoke was so heavy motorists were forced to use headlights.

Sunday Journal and Star

Action Line
Or Write P.O. Box 81689, Lincoln, NE 68501

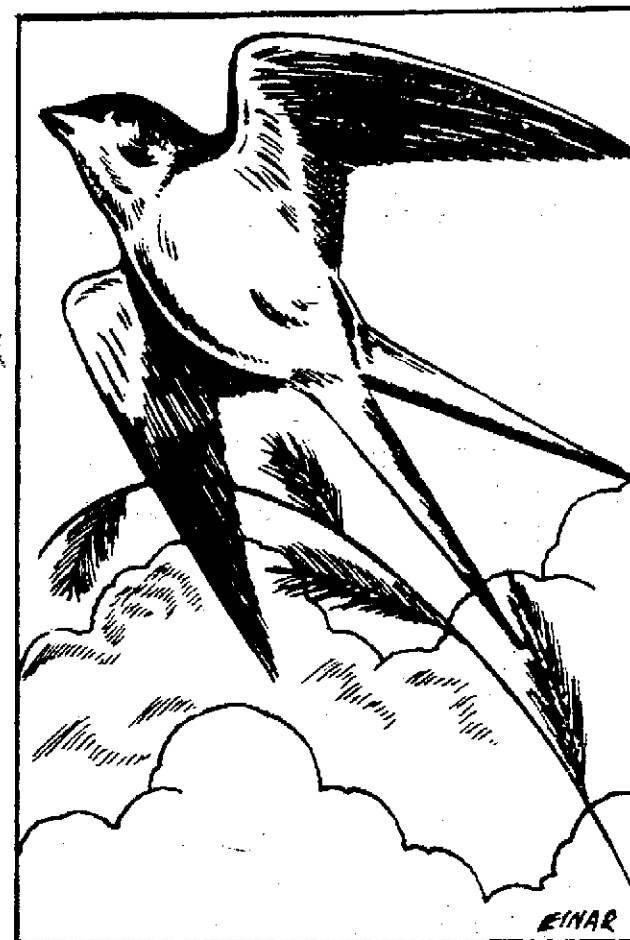

I used to live in Kansas and moved to Lincoln two years ago. I won't be able to run down home to pick peaches this year. It's almost that time, so tell me where in the world do you guys go to pick peaches?
—D.M., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Journal and Star Farm Editor Dominick Costello says some small-scale peach orchards are maintained but, to his knowledge, there are no large peach orchards in the state. At one time, he says, this was big fruit country but a severe storm on Armistice Day, 1940, wreaked havoc with the orchards. The unusually cold spring has resulted in virtually no peach yield this year, Costello added.

For apples and cherries we guys go to the Nemaha and Richardson County orchards along the Missouri River. For peaches we probably go to the grocery store this year.

Why have there been so many swallows in Lincoln this summer? Isn't it rather unusual to have so many of this type of bird in Lincoln? Some have built a nest in my garage.
Mrs. Steele, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Nebraska Audubon Society President Bruce Kennedy said he's noticed the same thing, but it isn't uncommon for swallows to nest in the city. He said he has noticed an unusual number of swallows on his farm near Malcolm.

"We normally have about 20 pairs, and I would say the number is up to about 30 pairs this year, and there are considerably more young birds," he said. "They like to nest on good rafters where cats can't get after them." Kennedy added that you can probably count on the swallows coming back to your garage again next year.

Are fire exits in Lincoln buildings kept locked night and day?
—Max Sloan, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Lincoln Fire Inspector Jerry McGinn says all fire exits in Lincoln buildings must be kept unlocked during hours of occupancy.

"Fire exits shall be open, and not be blocked by tables or any other device," said McGinn. "Also, aisles must be free at all times."

On April 23 I ordered a blouse from Bryant Lane Co., Indianapolis, Ind. I enclosed a check for $15.81. After several inquiries no blouse or refund. Please Help!
—M.F., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Mrs. Diane Basey, Customer Service Dept., Bryant Lane Co. said your blouse has been back ordered and was shipped May 15, but to an incorrect address. The blouse will be resent immediately to the correct address.

I would like to know who sells Woodcarv Cabinets by Nutone. I would like to get some top cabinets.
—Mrs. R.M., Dunbar

ACTION LINE: Nutone cabinets are scarce in Lincoln. Action Line could locate no furniture dealers who carry them, although Miller and Paine said the cabinets could be ordered through the store.

ACTION TIP: If you're among the thousands of Americans who will be moving soon, you'll find helpful information in a booklet published by the Interstate Commerce Commission. "Information on Moving Your Household Goods" is a consumer's guide to estimates, actual costs and movers' responsibilities for pick-up, delivery, loss or damage. Complete descriptions of all the documents involved in moving are included in the 20c, 17-page booklet from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

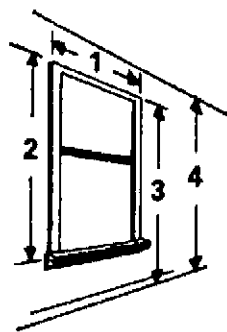

Why doesn't the concrete plant between the 6200 and 6300 block on Cornhusker Hwy. have a stop sign on its entrance road onto the highway?
—Safe and Sane, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Dick Mickelson, assistant city traffic engineer, said the city ordinance concerning private drives entering a public highway requires that each vehicle must stop before entering the highway, regardless of the presence of a stop sign.

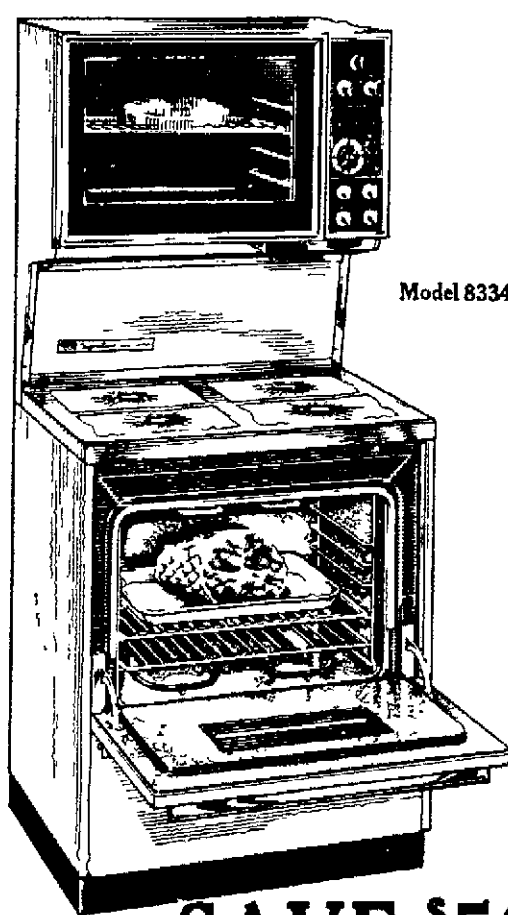

Businesses are not required to have stop signs at their service roads, Mickelson said. Signs are for the safety of their customers. He recommends that all property owners put up stop signs as a safety precaution.

Two Apartment Complexes Sold For $5 Million

Chateau Laffeur and Charleston Court apartment complexes have been sold for approximately $5,837,000, according to documents filed Tuesday in the Lancaster County Register of Deeds office.

Register of Deeds Ken Ferguson said the transaction was one of the biggest of record for his office.

Charleston Court at 56th & Holdrege includes about 228 living units, and Chateau Laffeur at Coter Blvd. and Vine St. has about 350 apartments.

The documents show Omaha developer Sterling Flott and his wife as owners of the apartment complexes. Six or seven persons from Munich, Germany are listed as buyers; Sophie Graf of Munich is trustee.

Board OKs Hiring of City, County Coordinator

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The city and county finally are on their way to assessing human service needs as a result of County Board action Tuesday agreeing to a modified plan with the city.

With no additional argument or debate, the commissioners unanimously approved the revised agreement calling for the hiring of a coordinator. That plan was hammered out by city lawmakers Monday. They deleted the creation of a department of human services.

The modified plan also calls for the coordinator to be appointed jointly by city and county officials and all costs split on a 50%-50% basis.

An estimated budget suggested for the coordinator, clerical help and consultant fees is $47,000.

The modified plan also calls for the coordinator to be appointed jointly by city and county officials and all costs split on a 50%-50% basis.

Dr. Lyman, reviewing current and proposed department operations with the Lancaster County Health Planning Council (LCHPC), said the minimum of one public health nurse per 5,000 population has been achieved only in the central district, Lincoln proper.

When the neighborhood center is begun in the northeast district, for county residents north of Van Dorn and east of 27th St., he said the current ratio of one to 15,000 residents will drop to one in 6,000, with five public health nurses.

In other business, the board took another step in solving crowded conditions at the County-City Building and possibly paving the way for the overdue construction of a fourth Municipal Courtroom.

The commissioners reported that negotiations are under way to lease 8,500-square-foot of office space at 27th and O to house the drivers' licensing bureau, the Superintendent of Schools office and the Veterans Service Center. All three offices are located in the County-City Building.

Plans approved by the County-City Building Committee call for the second floor personnel department to be remodeled into the courtroom. But, personnel can't move until the licensing bureau does.

Earlier this year the City Council, thinking such a move was imminent, authorized the appointment of a fourth judge by the governor. The result was a new judge and no courtroom.

The vacated Superintendent of Schools space would be turned over to the County Attorney's office, while the vacated Veterans Service Center space would be given to the district court adult probation workers.

Gauger said the proposed agreement calls for the county to lease the area at a $1.50 per square foot for five years.

She said extensive remodeling would be needed before the county departments could move in. One estimate placed remodeling costs at $45,000.

The earliest the renovation could be completed and the offices relocated is Oct. 1, Gauger said.

Art Classes
In further action the board approved the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation's request to use the fourth floor section of the south wing of Lancaster Manor to conduct art classes.

The commissioners also approved the appointment of Stu Erickson, community relations director for St. Elizabeth Community Health Center, to the Lancaster Manor Advisory Board. Erickson will replace Jerry Sellentin, who is resigning from the board.

The board also:
—Approved application for subdivision permit made by Bruce Bofford for an additional two-acre tract.

—Requested County Attorney to prepare a resolution on the closing of Garland Ave., east of Fox in plat of Prairie Home.

—Authorized speed limit of 35 miles per hour on certain roads in Holland.

—Denied application of Charles Mayer to use county roads when needed to land plane while crop dusting.

—Approved revisions of Operations Plan.

Health Board To Establish More District Centers

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Once Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department offices are established in each quarter of the county, those district centers should be available for other health and social agencies "to bring their services to the neighborhood level likewise," Director Ed Lyman said Tuesday.

Dr. Lyman, reviewing current and proposed department operations with the Lancaster County Health Planning Council (LCHPC), said the minimum of one public health nurse per 5,000 population has been achieved only in the central district, Lincoln proper.

In fiscal 1975, Lyman said two public health nurses are planned for the northwest district and four each in the southwest and southeast. The director noted that the health department should reach more people, because public health nurses' skills have expanded and the department's nursing staff will be doubled in fiscal 1975.

Lyman said the department will try to return to team nursing at the neighborhood centers, using licensed practical nurses and nurses' aides.

He also advocated creation of a health forum, wherein all health agencies in the county would meet regularly, simply to exchange ideas; such a forum should have no regulatory powers. He said it would replace the health department's citizens' advisory committee, which in the past "has been a come-and-go proposition."

Report To Be Sent
In other business, the council directed that the hospital services planning report, an evaluation of Lincoln's health care system, be sent to all Lincoln hospital boards, medical staffs, obstetricians, gynecologists, pediatricians, family practitioners and the Lancaster County Medical Society for responses.

Prepared by the chief executives of Lincoln General, Bryan and St. Elizabeth's hospitals, the report presented in June concluded that duplication among hospital services is possibly desirable in some areas and that sharing should be accomplished when possible except in direct medical care areas.

Council member Alyce Studnicka, said her nine-member committee has met once to review a $50,000 grant application for a feasibility study to establish a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) in Lincoln.

Review Period
The application by Community Health Care Association Inc.

is in a review period that ends Aug. 26, when recommendations for approval or denial will go to the federal Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Council chairman Bill Johnston said a committee studying Lincoln General's rate-making authority is reviewing a position paper it received from the hospital last week.

Two resolutions pending before the City Council would put complete rate-making authority in the hospital board, or in the City Council. Currently the board recommends rate changes, subject to City Council action.

Nursing Home Proposal
Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council Executive Director Bill Joern said the LCHPC should review by Aug. 8 additional information submitted to the State Health Department on a proposed nursing home in Waverly.

The council in April endorsed denial of the application, based on studies indicating no additional nursing home beds are needed in Lancaster County.

A nursing home application for Friendship Villa is northeast Lincoln, which also got a negative council recommendation, has been withdrawn in favor of attempting to develop congregate living for the elderly and disabled, Joern said.

Health, Welfare Council
The Southeast Council recommended that Waverly form a health and welfare council to identify local individuals for referral to existing agencies in the county, or develop alternate services to nursing homes, he said.

The review period for the Waverly nursing home application ends Aug. 13, after two 60-day extensions from the state.

Joern also noted that the Southeast Council is coordinating with the City-County Health Department to form an emergency services council, and Director Lyman has already formed a committee on ambulance services.

The new emergency medical services council should have its first report available by August or September, Joern said.

In other business, Chairman Johnston said the LCHPC will meet with the Lancaster County Board informally on Monday and formally on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. to request $10,000 for its fiscal 1975 budget, the same as in fiscal 1974. LCHPC in August will request from the City Council $6,000, also identical to the fiscal 1974 grant, he said.

New Members OK'd
Council members approved nominations of Bill Roper as an alternate and consumer board member, and Max Denney as a government board member.

The council will meet next on Aug. 6, when agenda items will include the HMO, Lincoln General Hospital and Waverly nursing home reviews.

Tunbridge Wells — Tunbridge Wells is a pretty English town a couple of easy hours south of London. A foppish Prince of Wales came there to drink its famous chalybeate water — cured falling hair to hangovers. It is a heartbeat of England's traditions.

"Now if you was to come to my 'ome in the north, sir," said the barman in The Swan, "you would be able to write of 'ow they p'y the cattle crossing."

"The people thereabout used to cross their cattle on the Earl's estate, do you see? And for the privilege they p'yd sixpence a year. So on the first d'y of spring, they come from all around and the Earl, 'e rides up and the people fling their sixpence on the great stone and cry out: 'Tun money!'"

"Why do they say that?" "Because that's the w'y they always cried it, sir," said the barman. "It's just the w'y they done it and no changes."

"What else do they do?"

"Why then they all goes down to the village ... To the pub, sir, the one called 'The Brown Cow' ... And they drinks rum and milk. The Earl, 'e toasts them. And they toast 'im. Then they present 'im with a white cow with pink eyes."

"And then the cattle cross the estate?"

"Cor, no," said the barman.

"There 'asn't been cattle around there for 200 years. It's a weaving town. But there used to be cattle."

There was a lady in The Swan. English pubs have several divisions. The bar itself stands in the center with polished brass beer pumps and the bottles of whiskey in racks, upside down. The whiskey is drawn from them with a spigot.

There is the public bar side, the private bar and the saloon bar. We were in the saloon bar and the lady was drinking a dark ale. She said her late husband had been a Beefeater.

☆☆☆

"You've seen them at the Tower of London? The men in the red coats and ruffles who guard the Crown jewels?" "One of them is chosen each year to carry the Maundy money. My husband had the job in the time of the late King George."

"Maundy money?" "The money the King or Queen gives, as the case may be, on Maundy Thursday. It's the Thursday before Easter, isn't it?"

"Cor," said the barman, "I can't keep track of 'em all."

"Anyway," said the lady, "they bring in paupers according to the monarch's age and they give each one gold crowns — or perhaps it's gold shillings. One for each year of the King's age."

"Well, now, when my husband bore the Maundy money — it's born on a golden tray at Westminster Abbey — the King was 50 years. So there were 50 paupers and gold pieces for each of them."

"I don't know how I'm to do it," he told me. 'For I'm not the one for lifting as when I was young and the tray'll fair break my head.' He was in the Guards for years but retired then," said the lady.

"And what happened to him?"

"You know the flat red hats the Beefeaters wear? I stuffed it with mops," said the lady. "Household mops. I stuffed it good and it made a cushion. The other Beefeaters lifted it onto his head and he told me afterward he swayed so they though he'd never make it.

"But he came down the aisles, straight as an arrow. For he couldn't bend an inch do you see or he'd go topheavy and splash would go the money over the floor. His only bad time was when he had to get it off his head. But he managed somehow and the King gave out the money."

"Cor," said the barman, "it sounds like a cruel custom."

Queen's Turn Romps To Win In Inaugural

Queen's Turn (1) leads going into the stretch in the featured seventh race during opening day racing action at the Fairgrounds. Queens Turn won the Inaugural purse paying $2.60, $2.20 and $2.20 while Miss Aggieville returned $2.40 and $2.40 and Patsy's Reign, coupled with Queen's Turn returned $2.60, $2.20 and $2.20 for the show.

Star Sports Writer

If there were any doubts as to the fitness of Paul Kemling's Queen's Turn, all you had to do was look at the first jumps away from the starting gate Tuesday at the State Fairgrounds.

The swift 3-year-old led every hoofbeat of the 6-furlong $3,500 Inaugural Handicap as the Fairgrounds opened its 26-day horse race meet season. She was only running, however, exactly as her Aurora owner knew she could.

"I thought Miss Aggieville (who finished second) was the only one that could contest her providing she (Queen's Turn) would run up to her capabilities," he said. "I was also pleased that Patsy's Reign was third."

It was no secret to the crowd of 5,925. The entry of Queen's Turn and Patsy's Reign was bet to 1-5 and that backing was certainly justified.

Queen, guided by jockey Ken Jones, sprinted to an early lead, stretched that to four down the backstretch, then moved off to five lengths entering the stretch. She won easily by six lengths.

"I just told Ken to get to the front, save ground and save her as long as you can," Kemling said. "I think she's just getting back to where she was before she hurt herself on the van going to Omaha (Ak-Sar-Ben)."

Queen's Turn, in moving from Grand Island at the close of the Fanner Park meeting, caught herself in a rope and almost strangled to death in the van en route to Omaha.

That hurt her performance at Ak-Sar-Ben as she captured only two of six races there after winning $47,619 in her juvenile season of competition last year. That effort last year earned her Nebraska horse-of-the-year honors for 1973.

Now, the problem is who will face the Kemling speedster?

"I hope we can get the races to fill against her," Kemling said, adding that it "could be" a problem after her impressive effort Tuesday. "If they don't fill, then we'll probably retire her for this season. Right now, we don't plan to go outside of Nebraska with her."

Queen's Turn is nominated to all the 3-year-old stakes and Nebraska-bred stakes races this season at the Fairgrounds.

"We'll probably send Patsy's Reign (who relishes a route of ground) in the Nebraska State Fair Breeders' Special (a mile event for 3-year-old Nebraska breds on Aug. 2)," Kemling noted.

The entry was so heavily-backed that it created a $316.45 minus pool in the place betting. The betting totals on the entry read $9,146 of the $14,999 on the win money; $6,833 of the $10,917 on the place and $6,594 of the $10,492 in the show position.

The time of 1:12 was just one second off the track record of 1:11 set by The First Visit on July 25, 1970.

In romping past seven foes, Queen's Turn and Patsy's Reign, who showed returned $2.60, $2.20 and $2.20. Miss Aggieville, who defeated Patsy's Reign by one length for the second spot, placed for $2.40 and $2.40.

The victory aboard Queen's Turn was one of three wins for Jones. He scored earlier on Victor Padilla and T. G. Pearce's Larksville ($11.80) in the sixth race and later on Lyle Scott's Loon's Buster ($5.40) in the ninth.

The triumph for Loon's Buster was the 6-year-old gelding's eighth in 10 starts this year after capturing his first five outings.

Although the crowd of 5,925 was not a record it was an increase over last year's opening-day attendance of 5,443. The mutual handle of $329,697 was an opening-day mark far surpassing last year's $273,353.

The early daily double handled $4,530 — another all time record.

Federal Aid . . . No Freedom!

Federal Aid . . . No Freedom!

That very well could be the sign carried on the picket line by Department of Health, Education and Welfare enforcers of Title IX, a governmental regulation which prohibits sex discrimination in education programs or activities which receive Federal financial assistance.

What is Federal Aid anyway? It's merely a method of the Federal Government returning yours and my tax money to you and me. But, by the fact that the government takes the money from us and gives it back, governmental agencies are telling us how we can spend OUR money.

What is about to happen in education and athletics as well, already has happened in many areas, such as a regulation that required the State of Nebraska to take down its tourist information signs under the threat of losing Federal road funds.

While politicians seem to be more worried about Watergate and pro football players about their 63 demands, it seems to me we'd better start thinking about the real chance that one of these days there aren't going to be any freedoms left.

Don't get me wrong. I don't favor sex discrimination, but the manner in which HEW wants to insure against it is just another way of holding an axe over our heads. It's Washington again running our private lives.

Government Starts Rules Making?

Chuck Neinas, commissioner of the Big Eight Conference, was one of the many educators and athletic administrators who got up to ask questions at Monday's HEW briefing on Title IX in Omaha.

He asked this question of Ms. Gwen Gregory, special assistant to the director of the Office for Civil Rights:

Neinas: "Eligibility rules differ between national organizations and between conferences. For example, in our conference when a man transfers from one Big Eight school to another Big Eight institution, he not only sits out the year in residence, but is penalized one year of varsity eligibility. This is to try to eliminate transferring between institutions of the same conference. There also are differences between academic standards to maintain eligibility."

"The question to you is if the women had a more lenient transfer rule are the men then required to change theirs?"

Ms. Gregory: "It probably would be for the reason that what we've been saying to the individual male athlete is that if you were a woman you would be able to play in athletics, but because you're a man you can't."

Neinas: I take it from this the government is going to start establishing intercollegiate athletic eligibility rules."

Mr. Gregory: "That's not the way I take it."

Ms. Gregory was the only one in the room who saw it that way. Neinas struck a big point. It's one that should deeply concern the men who run intercollegiate athletics.

Firm Guidelines Lacking

Neinas began his remarks with this statement: "Certainly, intercollegiate athletics thinks it can solve its own problems without the help of the government."

He mentioned that one of the problems now is a variance in interpretations. "I realize that the reason for the discussion groups (HEW meetings across the nation) is to gain information to provide interpretations."

"So it is my suggestion that you try and firm up these interpretations as early as possible so that there may be guidelines and implementation," he said.

Neinas pointed out that the NCAA has a By-Law which enables getting interpretations every week. "This becomes rather important when you're trying to abide by the rules," he said.

Then he pointed out some conflicting interpretations put out by HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

Weinberger at a press briefing last month said that if an institution sponsored separate men's and women's tennis teams that the scholarships granted by that institution must weigh equal.

On the other hand, there was a question on whether 15 or 20 women, say at Ohio State, desire to start a football team would OSU have to provide the same number of scholarships as men football players receive. Weinberger responded negatively.

"This obviously is possibly a payout example," Neinas said. "But it definitely gets to the guts of the issue and that is: We need some more firm guidelines and interpretations."

If other governmental programs are put together as loosely as Title IX, it makes me wonder how much boondoggling really goes on in Washington.

Coluccio Aids In Twins' Fall

By The Associated Press

Bob Coluccio of the Milwaukee Brewers was a troublesome fellow for the Minnesota Twins Tuesday night.

Coluccio was on first base with a single in the first inning when John Briggs hit his 16th home run. Two innings later, Coluccio singled as part of a two-run outburst that led to the Brewers 5-4 victory.

And in the seventh, pitcher Ray Corbin knocked the Brewer outfielder unconscious momentarily, an incident which touched off a number of fights among the players who had gathered around Coluccio.

In other American League action, the Kansas City Royals edged the Boston Red Sox 5-4, the Chicago White Sox blanked the Detroit Tigers 6-0, the New York Yankees shut out the Texas Rangers 2-0, the Oakland A's trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 and the California Angels trounced the Cleveland Indians 11-2.

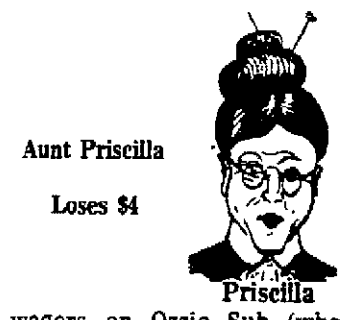

In National League action, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Houston Astros 6-2, the Chicago Cubs downed the Atlanta Braves 7-2, and the Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 12-7.

Rookie Al Cowens' two-run single in the sixth inning capped a three-run game-winning rally for Kansas City.

Dick Allen's three-run homer and rookie Brian Downing's solo home run backed the two-hit pitching of White Sox pitcher Jim Kaat who outdueled Mickey Lolich.

Aunt Priscilla Loses On First Day At Track

Oh Lordy! I do hope that first day at the Fairgrounds won't throw a jinx on the rest of the year. Your dear old Aunt Priscilla lost both her $2 win wagers on Ozzie Sub (who returned $3.80 for third) and Rob Kebob (the nasty thing is still running).

Aunt Priscilla Loses $4

The bad thing about those TV cameras showing the rerun of the rerun is that I had to watch those two losing efforts more than once. That first day dropped my $104 spree fund down to an even $100.

If I lose today, I'm just going to have to dust off my old crystal ball. But I notice one of my favorites is running in the second, Arky Twist, while a horse that reminds me of my old days dealing whist on a Mississippi river boat, Gambelin Frank, is running in the seventh so I think I'll bet $2 to win on both.

Oakland's Jackson Tops American League Votes

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson received a record-shattering 3,497,358 votes as the most popular player on the American League All-Star squad, but his manager says he should have had more.

"Even with that amount of votes, Reggie is underrated," said Oakland's Alvin Dark. "He should get all the votes and be a unanimous choice."

Jackson will be joined in the outfield by Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers and Bobby Murcer of New York. Burroughs, who received 1,546,766 votes in the nationwide poll of fans, is the only "rookie" on the eight-man team announced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Tuesday.

Returning to the starting lineup for the 45th annual baseball rivalry with the National League's best, in addition to Jackson and Murcer, who had 1,539,335 votes, are Chicago's Dick Allen at first base with 1,285,911; Rod Carew of Minnesota at second with 2,402,968; Brooks Robinson of Baltimore at third with 1,437,716, and Bert Campaneris of Oakland at short with 2,143,524.

Carlton Fisk of Boston won the starting berth as catcher with 1,626,874 votes, but he has an injured knee and the job probably will go to New York's Thurman Munson, runner-up with 1,243,779 votes.

Kuhn said Jackson's share of the 6,545,712 votes cast for the July 23 game in Pittsburgh was the highest for a single player since the voting began.

"It's a nice feeling to get more votes than Henry Aaron or Johnny Bench, to be recognized by the people," said Jackson. "It's a nice feeling, and gives me confidence to play ball better."

Aaron, the Atlanta outfielder and home pun king, and Bench, Cincinnati's catcher, led the NL squad announced Monday with more than 2.5 million votes each from a record 6,545,712 ballots cast.

Other NL starters are outfielders Pete Rose of Cincinnati and Jim Wynn of Los Angeles; first baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, who won as a write-in candidate; second baseman Joe Morgan of Cincinnati; third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles and shortstop Larry Bowa of Philadelphia.

American League Manager Dick Williams of California, who will be managing Jackson and Campaneris for the first time since he led the Oakland A's to the World Series championship last fall, and National League Manager Yogi Berra of New York will pick the All-Star pitchers and reserves.

French Shift To New Electronic Surgical Technique

(EDITOR'S NOTE: There's a virtually painless surgical technique that's been developed in France with U.S. Army funds. However, American civilians will have to cross the Atlantic if they're interested, according to Michael Johnson, Paris bureau chief for McGraw-Hill World News.)

By MICHAEL JOHNSON
Paris — Without knowing quite how or why it works, French doctors are moving ahead this summer toward general use of a new "sleep machine" that leaves patients immune to pain for several hours after awakening from an operation.

The method cuts down the use of anesthetic drugs to a fraction of normal doses, and allows most patients to regain consciousness even before leaving the operating table.

While mysteries remain about its exact action inside the brain, four French hospitals have adopted it as an anesthetic tool, and a Vienna obstetrician is using it for "painless childbirth" deliveries.

The French expect the technique to win quick acceptance in Europe and Asia, then somewhat slower in the conservative U.S. medical establishment.

Ironically, all of the funding for the French techniques came from the U.S. Army Research and Development Command — $185,000 over the past two years to cover the cost of prototype hardware. As a result, the French know-how will be in the public domain in the United States.

"We're a small country here," says Dr. Maurice Cara, head of anesthetics at Necker Hospital in Paris, the institution where the method has been developed and discretely tested over the past two years. "We can test innovations on humans much easier than in the United States."

Patients reportedly are accepting the new electronic anesthetic bravely despite the fearsome trappings — a rubber headband wired with three electrodes, and an electric signal generator that produces the delicate current needed to kill pain without harming the patient or jolting him awake in mid-surgery.

Dr. Christian Debras, head of anesthetics in Necker's urology department, sees a growing need for the technique as surgeons make greater use of prolonged, complex operations such as organ transplants. The heavy dosages of drugs needed to keep a patient under for six to 10 hours are replaced by the quiet hum of the electronic gear. The patient thus escapes the drug-induced vulnerability to infection, and the return of pain perception is so slow that post-operative tranquilizers are eliminated in most cases.

The main French breakthrough that earlier researchers failed to achieve is the development of a D.C. (direct current) waveform that has a pain-killing action on the brain cells yet is free from such side effects as convulsions and muscle spasms.

Dr. Aime Limoge, a Paris dental surgeon, is the man who finally discovered the type of current best adaptable to the human brain, after 20 years of experimentation on pigs, dogs, monkeys, and his dental patients. Dr. Limoge also painstakingly worked out the best location for the electrodes — two positive ones behind the ears, and a negative one between the eyebrows.

The Necker doctors have used Dr. Limoge's equipment on patients of both sexes, ranging from 19 to 83 years of age. After some initial problems of post-operative vomiting they have compiled enough positive data to declare the technique "harmless, effective and promising," says Dr. Debras. The only other negative side-effects they have recorded are one case of 48-hour amnesia, and two cases of mild headaches. But none could be traced absolutely to the electronic technique. The longest surgery to date lasted ten and one-half hours.

French controls on new medical techniques are liberal enough to permit the system to be used commercially. But in other countries proof of effectiveness and safety will be demanded.

The French say their U.S. funding has an important requirement in this regard. "Our experimental standards must be up to those required in the United States," says Dr. Limoge.

"This will give us data acceptable to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, and should help our method gain acceptance in the United States."

Big Eight Cagers Trip Said Super By Walseth

Kansas City, Mo. — Although the won-loss record of the Big Eight all-star basketball team on its recent trip throughout Yugoslavia wasn't particularly impressive, it was a tremendous success according to Colorado Coach Russell "Sox" Walseth, one of the two all-star mentors:

"It was a super trip," said the dean of Big Eight cage coaches. "The people over there were very friendly and organized. We got to play some good basketball and to see a lot of the sights. It was a beneficial trip for all of us and I think the Yugoslavs were impressed with how we played."

"The tour was an outstanding experience," added Assistant Big Eight Commissioner Jack McClelland, who served as head of the delegation. "We were accorded the best of treatment by our hosts the Basketball Federation of Yugoslavia. Playing facilities were very good."

The Big Eight squad, which was co-coached by Walseth and Oklahoma Coach Joe Ramsey, finished the month-long journey with a 2-6 record. But that record may be a bit deceiving since the competition for the most part came from members of the Yugoslavian National team which had long been preparing for the World Games being held this month. The all-stars, on the other hand, had only five days of practice time together.

"I don't want it to sound like we're looking for excuses, but those guys have played together a long time and they go for about 10 months a year," pointed out Walseth. "Their average age is 26 and they're a very good club."

Although the eight games were played under the rugged international rules, the two Big Eight coaches taught some of their Yugoslav counterparts the ins and outs of collegiate basketball as played in the United States. "The Yugoslav Basketball Federation sponsored a clinic at Sibinik during the tour and brought in 100 basketball coaches from throughout the country," said McClelland. "Coaches Ramsey and Walseth both appeared as lecturers with each coach providing a four-hour segment of the program."

Two of Ramsey's stars at Oklahoma, center Alvan Adams and forward Tom Holland, and Nebraska guard Jerry Fort led the Big Eight standouts in the scoring department in the eight-game slate. Adams garnered 148 points while Holland and Fort each contributed 106. All 12 players saw considerable action. Former Brigham Young University all-American Kresimir Cosic, now playing for his home country, paced the Yugoslavs.

NU Track Recruits Announced

Nebraska track coach Frank Sevigne Tuesday announced the signing of 12 high school or junior college stars who will become Cornhuskers this fall.

Calling the 12 "an excellent group of recruits," Sevigne said he felt this was "one of the best groups of incoming athletes we've ever had. These men will be able to help us."

The 1974 Nebraska track recruits include:

Doug Aken of Millard — State gold medal 220 champion.

Tim Dovel of Red Oak, Ia. — Quartermiler and twin-brother of Tom Dovel, also recruited by Nebraska.

Tom Dovel of Red Oak, Ia. — Twin brother of Tim Dovel, and also a .48 quartermiler who won the Iowa high school title.

Bob Fink of Conifer, Colo. — One of Colorado's top milers who owns a career best of 4:23.0.

David Green of St. Elizabeth, Jamaica — Outstanding prep school jumper who has gone 23-8 in the long jump and 49-feet in the triple jump.

Dean Herzog of Lansing, Kan. — Kansas high school champion and national record-breaker in the high jump with an effort of 7-1 1/4.

Paul McClain of Bellevue — Nebraska State gold medalist in the quarter and half-miles with :48.9 and 1:53 times respectively.

Leif Olsson of Sweden — Prepped at Tucson, Ariz., as a foreign exchange student where he ran a 4:15 mile and a 1:54 half-mile.

Vic Rample of Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario — Sprinter who has run :09.7 in the 100, :21.8 in the 220 and :48.7 in the 440.

Harold Stelzer of Scituate, Mass. — Massachusetts and New England champion with a 4:13 mile to his credit.

Daniel Zaloudek of Papillion — Junior College transfer from North Platte, J.C., who has long-jumped 24-feet.

Donald Grow of Beachwood, N.J. — New Jersey champion in 880 with a 1:53 clocking. Also a :48.7 440 time.

Cheerleaders Chosen For Tilt

Four sets of cheerleaders and two bands will help provide color for the all-star high school basketball game here August 16.

Bob Morris of Waverly, director of the Nebraska Coaches Association sponsored game, said cheerleaders from Fremont, Lincoln, Southeast, Omaha Central, and Schuyler will perform, representing the schools of the two coaching staffs.

Fremont and Schuyler cheerleaders will be boosting the North cause for coaches Al Bahe of Fremont and Jay Muma of Schuyler. Southeast and Central cheerleaders will be backing the South's Wally McNaught of Southeast and Jim Martin of Central.

The two bands which have accepted invitations to play at the game are Fremont, representing the North, and Plattsmouth high school for the South.

Fish Kill Emergency Set For Part Of Platte River

A fish kill emergency, due to extremely low water, has been declared for the Platte River between Central City and Columbus.

Willard Barbee, director of the State Game and Parks Commission, said that water flow in the river "is so low that fish might begin dying at any moment."

The emergency declaration will prevent some waste, Barbee said.

The commission will allow fish to be taken by hand, legal minnow seine, dip or landing net, hand spear and other legal methods of archery and hook-and-line.

Johnson Lake Regatta Slated

Lexington (UPI) — The largest field in the seven-year history of the Johnson Lake Regatta is expected to compete in the races here this weekend. Lee Stewart, chairman of the event, said the first of three races on Saturday will begin at 11 a.m. Sunday's two-race schedule begins at 10 a.m.

More than 60 entries from Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Iowa are expected, Stewart said.

Anyone taking fish under the emergency declaration must have a fishing permit, and must observe daily bag and possession limits on game fish.

The emergency declaration will run July 16-31, unless cancelled by the Game Commission. Specifically prohibited are the use of explosives, firearms, poisons, or other chemicals. Fish taken from the river may

Game Commission Hires Four Officers

The Nebraska Game Commission has employed four additional conservation officers for the Lake McConaughy and Johnson Lake vicinities.

Ronald D. Holliman, Dale J. Johnson, Karl F. Cox, and George F. Sund, Jr., are undergoing field training.

Seniors' Tourney Set

Falls City — The 1974 Southeast Nebraska Seniors golf tournament will be played Sunday at the Falls City Country Club. Tee times will be available until 10:30 a.m. and contestants can bring their own golf cart. Entrants must be 50 years or older.

Holdrege Seeks Grid, Cage Foes

Holdrege — Holdrege High School has one open date for football and two open dates for basketball and is seeking opponents to fill them for the upcoming school year.

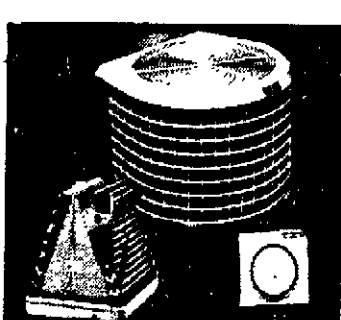

According to school officials, Holdrege needs a Sept. 6 football foe. The seven available basketball dates, two of which must be filled, are Dec. 14, Jan. 11, 25 and 31 and Feb. 15, 22 and 28.

NFL To Play Pre-Season

United Press International
Strike or no strike, the National Football League has decided to go ahead with its pre-season schedule as originally planned.

The executive committee of the NFL Management Council said Tuesday it would start the 1974 exhibition slate on Saturday, July 27, with the Hall of Fame Game at Canton, Ohio, using rookies and free agents to kickoff the exhibition season.

Following a day-long meeting, the committee said there was a possibility the warring factions may meet later this week in a renewed effort to settle bargaining problems.

"The mediator has asked both sides to reevaluate their positions, and if there is a basis for further meetings, he will reconvene the sessions," a committee spokesman said.

At this time, it is impossible to say where the meetings will be held. The NFL players association and the mediator have their offices in Washington, but some sessions have been held here.

The committee thoroughly discussed all avenues of the labor conflict and decided that there was precedent for starting the exhibition season even if the strike persists through next weekend.

"We affirmed that the NFL will play its pre-season games, starting with the July 27th Hall of Fame Game," the spokesman said. "We previously stated that a decision would be taken at an appropriate time. The committee has the power to cancel or play games during the negotiation period and took a sizeable step in its intent to play an exhibition schedule."

Buffalo and St. Louis are the opponents in the Fame contest. The world champion Miami Dolphins were to have played the College All-Stars in the exhibition starter, but the Chicago Tribune cancelled the game because of the labor dispute.

In the 1970 NFL strike, Minnesota and New Orleans played with rookies and free agents in the annual Canton game. Veterans came back to teams camps only two days before the game and were not considered in shape to play.

There were no visible signs of a truce in the current negotiations.

Training camps around the country continued to be filled with rookies and free agents, while a spokesman from the NFL Players Relations Committee expressed only "hope" that the two parties could begin talking compromise. "I was impressed by what Bill Curry said Monday," the spokesman said. "That is that both sides are ready to talk compromise. We have always been willing to talk compromise with the system, but the players up until now wanted only to talk elimination of it."

"Right now all I can say is that we are still trying to conform with what the federal mediator asked us, which was essentially to re-evaluate our position."

There were, however, a few minor desertions in the players' ranks Tuesday when veteran punter Bobby Walton crossed over the picket line and reported to the Pittsburgh Steelers camp at Latrobe, Pa.

"I'm doing what I think is right," said Walton, an 11-year NFL vet, who also was the first Steeler to cross over the line and report to training camp in the 1970 strike.

Two second-line Cincinnati Bengals' veterans — linebacker Jim LeClair and wide receiver Tim George — also reported.

At Hiram, Ohio, where the Cleveland Browns are training, head coach Nick Skorich said he had every intention of fielding a team for the Aug. 3 preseason opener against the Los Angeles Rams.

"We have 34 men in camp and we used to play with about that number when I was a player," Skorich said. Of those 34 players on hand, however, only one — wide receiver Gloster Richardson — is a veteran.

The Buffalo Bills continued their two-day workouts with 47 rookies and free agents in camp at Niagara Falls, N.Y. Unlike other teams which have had one or two veterans cross over the line, none of the Bill vets have reported. Meanwhile, O. J. Simpson, last season's player of the year, returned to his California home after a few days on the picket line and said he would not be back until July 25 — unless the strike ends.

The Bills, like the Browns, insist they will play pre-season games with the personnel at hand, but Tuesday they put nine players on waivers, including Sal Casola, the only placekicker in camp.

The Atlanta Falcons will open camp on Friday amid rumors that many of the team veterans would cross over the line. Player rep Ken Reeves said a team meeting has been called, however, "to say what is on our minds. This is the time to thrash it all out."

Dean's Condition Worsens

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The condition of baseball Hall of Famer Dizzy Dean worsened Tuesday evening, a spokesman at St. Mary's hospital said.

"The condition of Dizzy Dean, having deteriorated over the past two hours, has reached a critical stage," spokesman Ed Spoon said. "He is experiencing heart failure."

Earlier Tuesday, Spoon said Dean, 64, was being given medication designed to support his system while his body tried to heal damage to the heart.

Spoon said Dean's brother, Paul "Daffy" Dean, who combined with him to pitch the St. Louis Cardinals to the World Series title in 1934, was scheduled to fly to Reno Tuesday night.

He would join Dizzy's wife, Pat, at the bedside of the Hall of Fame pitcher. The couple has no children.

The hospital reported its switch board was flooded with hundreds of calls from well-wishers, and Spoon said countless telegrams were pouring into the hospital.

Dean was hospitalized Sunday night complaining of chest pains. Spoon said he suffered a severe heart attack early Monday morning at the hospital.

The attack came a few hours after Dean had been released from a South Lake Tahoe, Calif., hospital where he had been confined four days after suffering chest pains.

Dean played with the Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Browns during a 12-season career in which he won 150 games and lost 83. In 1934, he won 30 and lost 12, becoming the last National League pitcher to win 30 games in a season.

Citizen's Wins Marathon, 8-7		KOLN-KGIN Golf Meet Set
Roger Noxon scored on a single by Bob McCloskey in the bottom of the 12th inning to break a 7-7 deadlock and give Citizen's State Bank a AAA softball win over the Apothecary Tuesday night at Ballard Field.		Hastings (UPI) — The second annual $15,000 Midwest Golf Classic, sponsored by KOLN-TV — KGIN-TV, is set for Aug. 24-25 at the Lochland Country Club.
In the night's other game Deans Brothers romped past Roberts Dairy 10-1 behind the combined four-hit pitching of Norm Weideman and Don Crouch.		Entries should be mailed to the Midwest Golf Classic, P.O. Box 1011, Hastings, Neb., 68901.
Only the first 80 entries will be accepted in the amateur division. Eighty professionals will also compete.		Only Nebraska amateurs who are members of the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association are eligible. Amateur fees are $35 and the entry deadline is Aug. 6.
Winners of last year's tournament were touring pro Mike Morley of Minot, N.D., and Lincoln attorney Dick Spangler.		The event will be televised by the sponsoring stations, beginning at 4 p.m. each day. Singer Gordon MacRae will be co-anchor with Mark Ahmann, KOLN-TV — KGIN-TV sports director.

WFL Second Edition Ready To Take Field

By The Associated Press
A couple of winners and a couple of losers take to the field Wednesday night in Vol. 1, No. 2 of the World Football League edition.

The Chicago Fire and Jacksonville Sharks, both winners in the WFL inaugural last week, will meet at Chicago's Soldier Field before an expected crowd of 30,000, while the Hawaiians and the Southern California Sun, both 0-1, are expected to attract 40,000 spectators at Anaheim Stadium.

The Fire handed Houston a 17-0 setback in Chicago last week on a pair of passes from Virgil Carter to Cyril Pinder and Jim Scott, and a 30-yard field goal by Chuck Ramsey.

Gerry's Beats Mutual Life

Lincoln Gerry's scored five runs in the second inning on four hits Tuesday night at Sherman Field in American Junior Legion baseball to beat Lincoln Mutual Life, 7-3.

Kent Wurster tripled and scored two runs for Gerry's. In the midgame game Lincoln T.O. Haas beat Lincoln State Federal, 7-5.

In Wednesday's games Lincoln Aamco and Mutual Life meet in the juniors division, while State Federal and Lincoln Judds Brothers play in the midgame division.

Martin Fined, Suspended

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin, the volatile manager of the Texas Rangers, will begin a three-day suspension Wednesday, the apparent result of a pair of brushback incidents that occurred in last Sunday's doubleheader with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Martin, whose team was in New York to meet the Yankees, said Tuesday that he had met on Monday with American League President Lee MacPhail who advised him of the suspension.

In addition to the three-day setback which lasts through Friday, Martin said he had been fined, but would not reveal the amount.

MacPhail was not available for comment on the matter.

The suspension was officially announced by the American League about an hour after Martin disclosed it to sportswriters.

Ellis Falls To Lyle

Denver (AP) — Ron Lyle, staggering his much lighter opponent with repeated combinations, scored a unanimous decision over a flatfooted Jimmy Ellis in a 12-round heavy-weight bout Tuesday night.

Lyle won the fight 59-55, 58-52 and 59-52 in the judges' scoring.

The Stars expect a near sell-out in the 22,000-seat Downing Stadium on Randall's Island for their home debut with Birmingham. Although the Stars are 0-1 and the Americans 1-0, Birmingham Coach Jake Gotta expects anything but an easy time defending against quarterback Tom Sherman and wide receiver George Sauer.

"The Stars are going to be tough at their place," Gotta said. "I understand we are the underdog. That's all right. I'd rather be an underdog than a favorite."

Quarterback Bubba Wyche and wide receiver Hubie Bryant will be trying for the Wheels' first victory in their home opener in Detroit against the Blazers. Memphis crushed the Wheels 34-15 last week. And the Bell, which trounced Portland 33-8 last week, will be part of a "twin bill" in the Houston Astrodome. Texan officials, perhaps trying to cover up Houston's slow start, will be selling nickel beer during the game and rock music and acrobatics at halftime.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Dennis Leonard ended the Omaha Royals' skid Tuesday night, blanking Indianapolis on a six-hitter, 4-0.

Leonard, 7-11, struck out ten and walked one as Omaha ended a seven-game losing streak and stopped an Indianapolis winning streak at six. It was Omaha's third win in the last 24 games.

The Royals jumped to a 2-0 lead in the second inning. Shortstop Jamie Quirk singled, stole second and scored on a single by Gary Sanerino. Bobby Floyd followed with a triple to right field.

Omaha scored again in the fourth as Quirk led off with a single and Sanerino walked. Floyd moved up both with a sacrifice bunt. Dennis Paepke's sacrifice fly scored Quirk.

Nine Economists Issue Call To Battle Inflation

Washington (UPI) — Nine prominent economists called Tuesday for tax reforms to aid the poor, more public service jobs to cut unemployment and a slow mandatory reduction of interest rates to combat "the biggest peacetime inflation in our history."

Seven rejected any return to wage and price controls, which produced dissenting views from two members.

"The economy is in the worst trouble since World War II," the panel said in a report. House Speaker Carl Albert, chairman of the 23-member House Democratic Steering Committee which requested the report, said both majority and minority views would be considered in preparing legislation.

The seven who signed the majority report were Otto Eckstein, president of Data Resources, Inc.; Walter W. Heller, economics professor at the University of Minnesota; Leon Keyserling, a consulting economist; Arthur Okun, a Brookings Institution economist; Paul Samuelson, economics professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Charles L. Schultze, a Brookings economist, and James Tobin, Yale University professor of economics.

They called for tax reform that would aid low and middle income wage earners by increasing standard deductions and personal exemptions or the use of tax credits, while raising minimum taxes of the wealthy and tightening tax breaks granted domestic oil producers working abroad.

The two dissenting members — John Kenneth Galbraith, professor of economics at Harvard, and Robert Lakachman, professor of economics at New York City University — said "In the modern, highly organized economy there must be firm, fair and strongly administered wage and price controls."

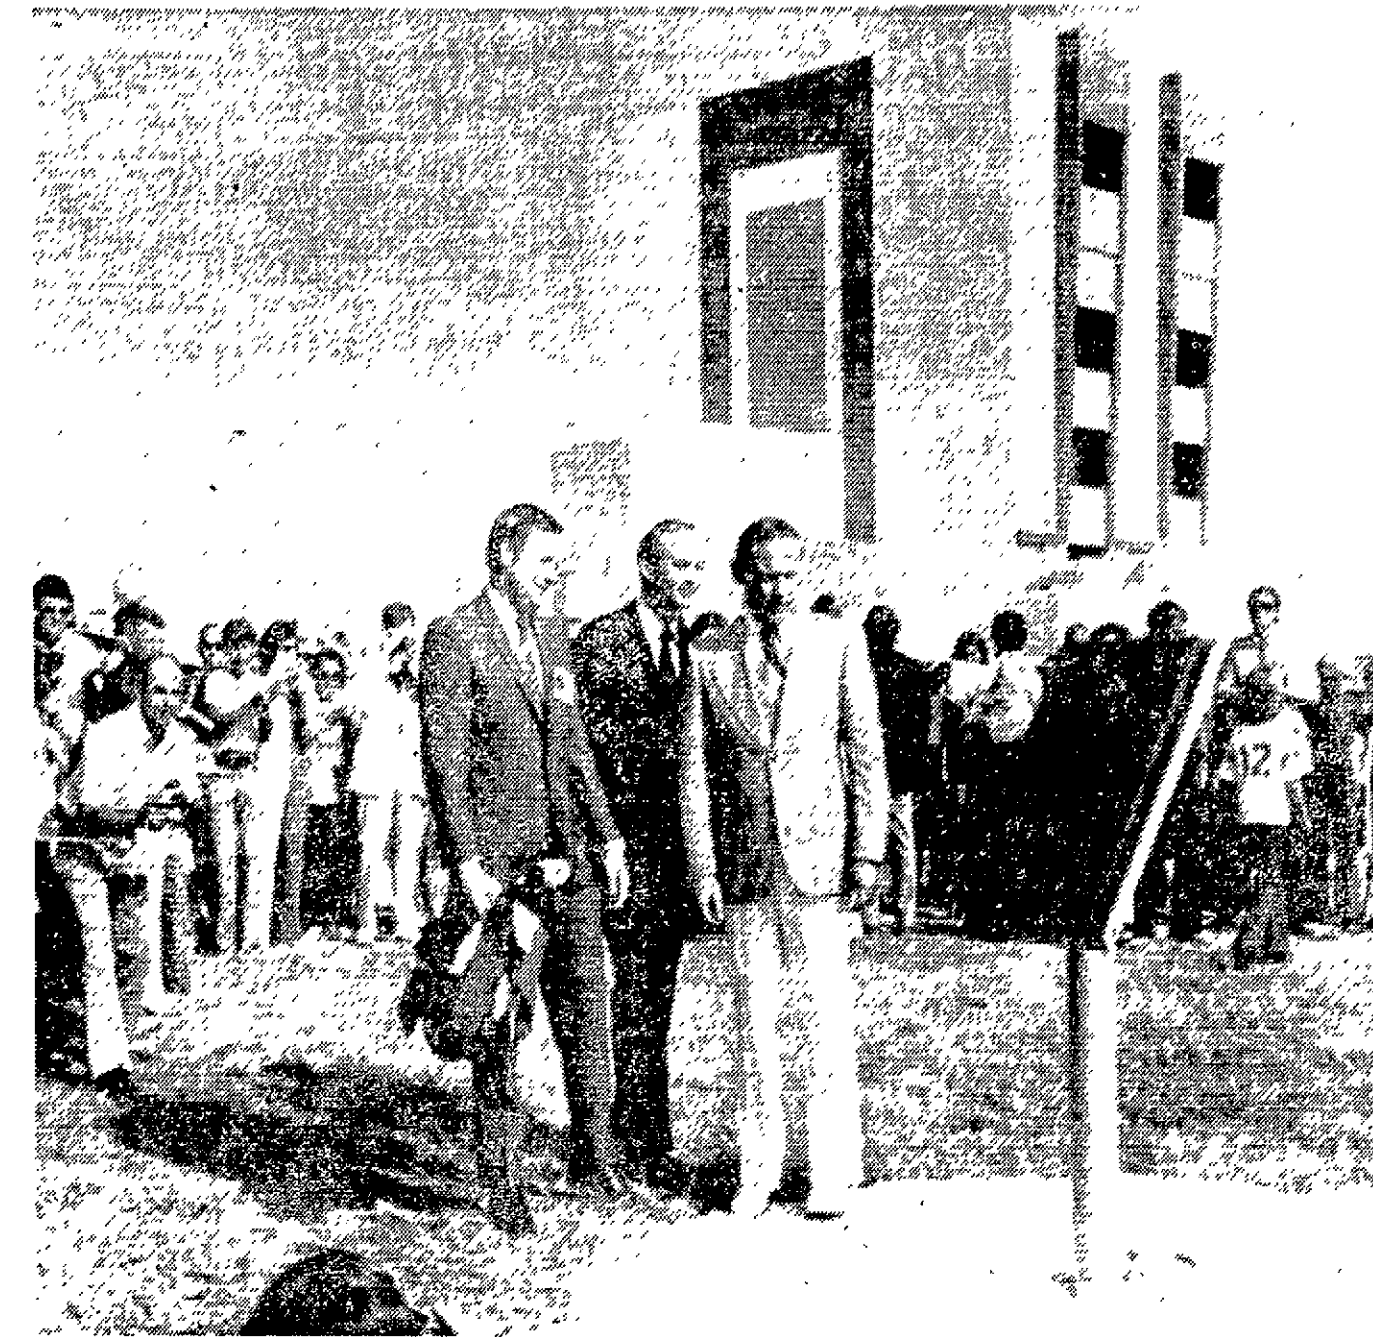

Their minority report also said "we need a stiff surtax on upper income, say above $15,000 or $20,000," coupled with "a solid increase in the corporate income tax" and an excise tax on "big automobiles" and other energy consuming devices such as air conditioners.

3 Out Of 4 Gas Stations Open Longer

Washington (UPI) — The supply of gasoline has increased to the extent that three out of four service stations are now open week nights and 57% are pumping on Sundays, the American Automobile Association reported Tuesday.

In its weekly survey of more than 5,000 stations in every state except Alaska, the AAA said 76% of the stations contacted reported they stay open after 6 p.m. weeknights, 68% are open Saturday evenings and nearly three of every five remain open on Sunday.

The average price of a gallon of gasoline remained at 56 cents for regular and 60 cents for premium, the AAA said.

APOLLO 11...astronauts Armstrong, left, Collins and Aldrin dedicate plaque.

Astronauts Celebrate Moon Trip

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins relived their blastoff toward the moon Tuesday in a fifth anniversary celebration of man's first trip to another world.

As loudspeakers blared a tape recording of the final 90 seconds of the July 16, 1969, Apollo 11 countdown, the three retired space travelers unveiled a plaque declaring Kennedy Space Center Launch Complex 39 as a national landmark.

A crowd estimated by officials at 6,000 gave the trio, who have not appeared together since making a European tour following their return to earth, a standing ovation and cheered as the countdown replay hit zero.

"Chills run up and down my spine whenever I hear that countdown," said Aldrin, 44, the lunar module pilot on the historic mission.

Armstrong, 43, the Apollo 11 commander and the first man on the moon, said it had not seemed like five years since the trio headed into space atop a Saturn 5 rocket.

"Here's where it all came together," said Armstrong, adding that the flight of Apollo 11 represented the dreams of generations.

Collins, 43, who circled the moon in the Apollo 11 mother ship while Armstrong and Aldrin landed, said he had ambivalent feelings about the fifth anniversary celebration.

"I look back on Apollo with nostalgia but ahead to the space shuttle with great hope," he said.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford sent a telegram to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, saying the Apollo program "showed the world what we Americans can accomplish when we have a plan and the determination to carry it through."

President Nixon also sent a message, declaring July 16-24 as United States Space Week.

Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins arrived at the complex only moments before the ceremonies began and left immediately afterward, forcing NASA officials to cancel a planned luncheon for them.

All three have left the space program. Armstrong now is a professor of aerospace engineering at the University of Cincinnati. Collins is director of the new National Air and Space Museum of the Smithsonian Institution. Aldrin recently published a book, "Return to Earth," and is currently writing a screen play.

Washington ceremonies will be held July 20 to commemorate the moon landing.

Simon Promises Aid In Solving Financial Problems Of Israelis

TEL AVIV (AP) — Treasury Secretary William Simon arrived in Israel Tuesday and promised Washington's help "in every way we can" to solve Israel's financial problems.

The American secretary flew here from Cairo where before he left there were indications the Egyptians were not very happy with President Nixon's aid package to Egypt.

At a Cairo news conference, Egyptian Deputy Premier Abdel Aziz Hegazy said if the United States was prepared to commit $2.2 billion in arms to Israel, "a minimum of $2.2 billion is called for in Egypt for progress and peace."

Simon, who sat next to Hegazy during the news conference, said he was in no position to offer more U.S. aid than already had been pledged. President Nixon has promised Egypt $250 million next year, but even that commitment has not been approved by Congress.

The Egyptians have been particularly interested in gaining help from the United States in buying low cost wheat and getting money to rebuild the Suez Canal. About $170 million out of the $250 million is to be used for the canal.

Upon arriving at Ben Gurion airport near Tel Aviv, Simon told newsmen that the United States and Israel stood on "the threshold of a new era" in their diplomatic and economic relations.

"I am here to begin a dialogue aiming at concrete implementation of President Nixon's and Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's joint communique of June 17, pledging further American economic, military and scientific assistance for Israel," he declared.

The Israeli government has been under heavy financial pressure since the October war, which cost the Israelis some $8 billion. Taxes have been increased, while prices have gone up as well.

During Simon's three-day visit

Simon Admits Calling Shah Of Iran A Nut

TEL AVIV (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon admitted Tuesday that he called the shah of Iran a nut, but he claimed he meant only that the shah has "very firm ideas" on oil prices.

He said he used the word as a colloquialism in the same way one might be described as a "nut about tennis or golf."

Simon was reacting to an account of an interview that appeared in the American Banker, a trade publication, in which he was quoted as saying flatly: "The shah of Iran is a nut."

"The statement was taken out of context and was entirely misleading and misunderstood," he insisted. "I did not, and would not say anything uncomplimentary about the shah."

However, Simon once before called remarks by the shah on U.S. oil imports during the Arab oil embargo "irresponsible, ruthless and just plain ridiculous."

The American Banker interview was given in Nice, France, where Simon stopped for 36 hours on his way to the Middle East. It also quoted the secretary as saying the shah wants Iran to be a "superpower," and that "he is putting all his oil profits into domestic investment, mostly military hardware."

Sources said Simon is unhappy with the shah's policies on oil, and is concerned that he may cut back oil production to keep prices at the current high level.

Indian Nuclear Bomb Test Could Have Been Bigger

Calcutta, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said Tuesday that India had a greater nuclear capability than that demonstrated in its first atomic test.

"India's nuclear experiment was highly successful," she said of the May 18 underground blast which had a yield equivalent of between 10,000 and 15,000 tons of TNT.

"It was not a big one," she continued. "But if we had wanted it, we could have done so."

Deceptive Clothing Legal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It is now legal for men to dress as women, and women as men, on the streets of San Francisco.

The Board of Supervisors on Monday night scrapped six old laws they said no longer are enforced — including a ban against wearing clothes of the opposite sex with intent to deceive.

law against advertising abortions, lewd literature and cures for venereal disease.

Supervisor Peter Tamaras said some of the laws were clearly unconstitutional and police were not enforcing them.

Among other laws eliminated was one against the wearing of an unusual costume in public.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
